BURCH JURY FAILS; NEW TRIAL

CITY'S SHOPS A FAILURE; TO BE SCRAPPED

Charge More than Commercial Firms.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The municipal shops have quit. The dream of efficiency and economy upon which more than $2,700,000 was invested was only a nightmare. With credit assets of $700,000 and liabilities of only $400,000 the shops have been closed out as a municipal institution. "They were a failure," said Ald. Woodhull.

"A rank failure," added Ald. Clarke. "More even than that—they were raw," said Ald. Maypole.

They failed, in the opinion of these three aldermen, who investigated them and recommended their banishment, because they charged too much for their services and products. This they ascribed to "mismanagement."

Abolish Capital Account.

The council finance committee put the finishing touches to the shops yesterday by recommending the abolition of its capital account of $400,000. "City work done at its own municipal shops cost 300 per cent of what it would have cost on the outside," said Ald. Woodhull, commenting upon the action. "Here's an instance: A dozen grooves 1/2 of an inch thick and 1/4 of an inch long cost $52 at the shops, which was upwards of 2,000 per cent of what they would have cost on the outside."

"The city can and has bought standard auto tires for list prices less 25 per cent," said Ald. Clarke, head of the subcommittee. "But the shops bought tires at list price and then charged the departments 25 per cent additional as overhead. Repairs cost three to four times as much as they would have cost if we had had the work done by private firms."

Overhead Always Included.

"Here is an illustration: A water valve, which on the outside would cost 75c, cost the city $35 in the shops. Another: A bell for a police auto, which would cost $8 to $10 on the outside, cost upwards of $80 at the shops. They charged for time on repairs, whether it was put in or not, and then added on 25 per cent overhead. What reason can you find for that?"

"Such operation explains why the shops appeared to be making money, when, in fact, it was worse than a failure," added Ald. Maypole. "The council would give a department, say, $100 to take care of its repairs, and it would get the equivalent of $300 worth."

Apparatus Rusts Away.

"Out at the shops were installed all sorts of apparatus for testing various materials purchased by the city, but the apparatus has been allowed to rust away."

The shops charged $5,113.97 to repair six particular Ford's in the course of one year. That is an average of $852.99 more than twice the cost of a new Ford.

Among the prize repairs made were those on three Fords. During the year the repairs on one Ford totaled $1,012.80, on another $1,083.91, and on the third $1,163.40. That is an average per Ford of $1,053.70, and it might be presumed by the uninitiated tax payer that these Fords would run for years thereafter. But the subcommittee's investigators recommended that all three be disposed of four months after these elaborate repairs had been made.

An Expensive Truck.

On a truck the repair bill was $2,866.76 and three months after that had been paid it was in the shop again for repairs of an estimated cost of $600. The committee's investigators suggested that truck be replaced.

In face of the fifty-nine cars for the repair of which the shops charged $35,712.80 the subcommittee reported four months after the repairs were made they were only twenty-three of them were in good shape and recommended that the other thirty-six machines be discarded and replaced with others.

These machines were in the service of the pipe yards and stores. One component of the subcommittee follows:

"Records in the pipe yards and stores divisions show that the sum of $20,000.41 was spent during the year for outside truck hire."

Built from Water Fund.

The municipal shops were built from the water fund at a cost of land, building, and equipment of $2,766,782. Now the facilities have been turned over in large measure to the fire department for its repair shop and will do work for other departments. This transfers the $2,766,782 from the water to the corporate fund, and as a matter of equity some provision should be made to refund the money to the water fund.

A POST-MORTEM ON BARLEYCORN AFTER 2 YEARS

18 Men Discuss Our Prohibition.

Yesterday, Jan. 16, 1922, was the second anniversary of constitutional prohibition. While the dry forces all over the country were celebrating, THE TRIBUNE observed the day by asking three lawyers, three doctors, three ministers, three druggists, three hotel men, and three policemen, all of whom might be expected to have been affected by the eighteenth amendment, eight questions relative to prohibition.

Here's What They Think.

Here are the questions and the way they were answered:

1. Has prohibition been a success? No—10. Yes—8.

2. Has it made any change in your professional life or business? If so, for better or worse? Better—9. Worse—5. No change—4.

3. Has it made any change in your social life? No—18. Yes—0.

4. Are you in favor of restoring all intoxicating liquors? No—17. Yes—1.

5. Are you in favor of restoring only beer and light wines? Yes—10. No—8.

6. Should the soldiers' bonus be paid by a tax on beer and light wines? No—11. Yes—5. Undecided—2.

7. Can bootlegging be stopped? No—10. Yes—4. Partially or in time—4.

8. Are you in favor of a star in the window to denote the strictly temperance home? No—17. Yes—1.

Doctors Agree on Success.

On the first question of whether prohibition has been a success, the doctors alone were unanimously in the affirmative. The policemen and the hotel men declared it a failure, while the others were divided in opinion.

The doctors agreed with the policemen that conditions have been better since the amendment, the former declaring that they now found less drunkenness and more money in the families of their patients, and the latter that fewer persons are being arrested for drunkenness. However, one doctor, a sergeant said: "Not as many drunks are brought in as there used to be, but the condition of those that do come in is more deplorable."

No one was to be found who would admit any change in his social life. Whether this unanimity of opinion was due to well-stocked cellars or strict temperance in the days B. P. was not determined.

Against the Saloon.

Only one person, a druggist, who admitted that it was from personal reasons only, said that he would like to see all intoxicating liquors back again. The fear of those who declared themselves against beer and light wines was that with that foothold saloons and all drinks would appear again. The majority of those asked were against having the soldiers' bonus paid by a tax on beer and light wines.

The opinion of most of those questioned was that bootlegging would always exist, just as other crime exists, but that more severe laws and stricter enforcement would wipe much of it out. Dr. Gilbert Wilson, pastor of the New First Congregational church, was emphatic in his opinion.

"Kick out the majority of the city council; give the chief of police and federal agents a chance, and bootlegging would soon be stopped," he said.

"Silly" Star Idea.

Only one person was in favor of the star in the window. Every one else characterized it as "silly" or "not worth while."

When it came to being interviewed the policemen and the lawyers were alike, in being reticent and refusing to have their names used. The doctors and ministers talked more readily.

While a few drunks still adorned the sidewalks of South Clark street, prohibition leaders jubilantly declared that complete victory for the dries was in sight.

Virgil Hinshaw, chairman of the prohibition national committee, said that the joke had been turned on the anti-prohibition societies.

Dries Are Confident.

"They seek to capitalize the waning appetites of a few old soaks, who still cry for booze," said Mr. Hinshaw. "All over the United States saloons and breweries have been turned into harmless stores and factories. Prohibition is here to stay."

Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon league, declared at a dry luncheon in St. Louis that, "no amendment to the Constitution has ever been repealed and the eighteenth amendment will not be repudiated."

BREAD PRICES TO BE SLASHED CENT A POUND TODAY

Bread prices will hit the toboggan today with a wholesale price reduction of a cent on pound loaves and a cent and one-half on twenty-four ounce loaves.

Passed along to the consumer, it means that pound loaves will drop from 10 to 9 cents and the larger loaves will be 14 instead of 15 cents.

As Chicago eats 1,250,000 loaves of bread every twenty-four hours, the decrease means a saving to the city's consumers of $12,500 a day.

The good news, announced last night by Russell J. Poole, secretary of the council committee on living costs, was preceded by a drop of 3 cents in the wholesale price of both storage and fresh eggs. The storage variety went to 22 cents a dozen, the lowest winter price in years, and fresh eggs sold at from 35 to 35 cents a dozen.

The bread price cut resulted from three conferences, in which Mr. Poole met a committee representing the bakers in his office.

DOG GIVES ALARM IN HOTEL BLAZE AND SAVES GUEST

Nero, a dog owned by the Hotel Halsted, 120 South Halsted street, last night saved a man from suffocation and spread the alarm in a $10,000 fire which started on the floor below the hotel.

John Curtin, hotel clerk, was reading a magazine when Nero dashed up the stairs, barking furiously. He led Curtin to the first floor, where a fire was burning.

When Lieut. George Kelly of Engine company No. 7 arrived he followed Nero into the hotel. The dog stopped before a bathroom door. Lieut. Kelly pushed the door open and discovered George Decker unconscious from smoke in the bathtub. Decker was wrapped in a blanket and carried outside, where he was revived.

The extension will cross Milwaukee avenue just south of Chicago avenue; Division street at Halsted street, and North avenue at Larrabee street. Two bridges, one across the north branch of the river and another across the Ogden canal, besides numerous viaducts across the C. & N. W. and other railroad tracks, are in the plans.

The council streets and alleys committee yesterday recommended an ordinance providing for the widening of Market street from Randolph to Lake streets from 80 to 120 feet, to comply with the plans for the South Water street improvement.

Midnight Kiss Rejected; He Kicks Her Out; Divorce

"He asked me to kiss him at midnight," Mrs. Florence MacPherson, 1129 East 81st street, told the judge yesterday. "He" was her husband, Robert S. MacPherson. She said she wouldn't kiss him—he kicked her out of bed—he told her to go to—Any way she went home to mother. Divorce granted.

Is Buffalo Like Heaven? Streets Paved with Gold!

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 16.—Gold bearing sand has been found in a downtown Buffalo street. A report was received today from New York assayers that samples of sand excavated in laying a fire main in Washington street showed gold $50 to the ton and silver 26.25 ounces to the ton.

START OGDEN AV. WORK IN 60 DAYS

City Announces Litigation

Virtually Completed.

Actual work on the extension of Ogden avenue from Union park to Lincoln park, an improvement agitated in Chicago for more than forty years, will begin within sixty days.

This announcement was made yesterday following the virtual end of the court proceedings in the case before Judge Mangin.

The improvement was first seriously considered twenty-two years ago. It was one of the big factors in the Chicago plan as devised by Daniel H. Burnham, was approved by the Chicago Plan commission Dec. 18, 1916, and by the city council Feb. 16, 1919.

Start at Center Street.

The tearing down of buildings to create a highway 168 feet wide from Lincoln park to Union park will begin at Center and Clark streets and the goal is to have the street paved as far south as Division street by next Christmas. The improvement will reduce by one mile the distance between Lincoln and Union parks.

Ogden avenue now ends in a pocket at Union park. To the southwest it leads past the city limits, through Riverside and Naperville, and connects with the Plainfield and Joliet highways.

Two Bridges Required.

The extension will cross Milwaukee avenue just south of Chicago avenue; Division street at Halsted street, and North avenue at Larrabee street. Two bridges, one across the north branch of the river and another across the Ogden canal, besides numerous viaducts across the C. & N. W. and other railroad tracks, are in the plans.

CHURCH TO HANG ON FEBRUARY 17, JUDGE DECREES

Harvey W. Church, recently convicted of the murder of Bernard J. Dougherty and Carl Ausmus, automobile salesman, will be hanged on Feb. 17, unless the governor or the Supreme court intervenes. Yesterday Judge John R. Caverly in the Criminal court, after listening for four hours to a motion for a new trial, overruled it and set the date upon which Church must pay the death penalty.

Seated in the defendant's chair yesterday, Church looked little like he did at the time of his capture. He took no notice of his surroundings and had to be practically carried into court by two bailiffs.

When the judge asked if he had anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced upon him he never moved and the two bailiffs had to lift him to his feet when the sentence was read.

Even when the judge sentenced him to be hanged he didn't move or open his eyes, closed beneath his long, unkempt hair.

Church's aged father and his sister, Isabelle, were in court and were apparently much affected by the sentence. The old man said he would do all in his power to save his son from the noose.

Prisoner Who Fled Hospital Gives Self Up

Walter Wallace, 29 years old, 808 West Congress street, ex-convict, who yesterday morning escaped from the county hospital, where he was under guard while recovering from wounds, last night surrendered himself to his brother, Traffic Policeman James Wallace, at the latter's home at 3856 Grenshaw street.

Walter Reison, 1515 West Monroe street, who aided Wallace in his escape, was taken into custody and is being held.

According to Wallace's story Reison waited outside the hospital and lighted two matches as a signal that the road was clear. Wallace then slid to the ground from a lavatory window on a rope of sheets. Reison provided Wallace with clothing, then they separated. Cold and hunger caused the escaped man's surrender.

Day's Crime List Small.

Yesterday's crime list was small. L. C. Davis, 1246 North Kedzie avenue, was robbed of his automobile by a lone bandit in the rear of his home.

Four alleged whiskey thieves attempted to hold up the drug store of John A. Peetz, 701 South Kedzie avenue, but were driven away without getting anything. Burglars got $3,000 worth of jewelry and other valuables from the home of Oscar Hornbeck, 7150 Yates avenue.

Five Booked for Larceny.

Three men and two women arrested Saturday by Sergts. Noonan and De Mar of detective bureau, were booked yesterday on charges of larceny and conspiracy in a scheme by which several State street department stores are said to have been defrauded. They gave the names of Raymond Morris, Joseph Fisher, Frank Egan, Mrs. Babe McAdow, and Miss Ida Pott.

According to the police, the prisoners obtained about $10,000 worth of merchandise by pretending to be the sons or daughters of wealthy parents.

CANNIBALISM
NOW GENERAL IN
VOLGA REGION

BY DONALD DAY.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

(Copyright, 1922, By The Chicago Tribune.)

RIGA, Jan. 16.—Cannibalism, reported as existing in Samara province by a delegate to the ninth congress of the soviets three weeks ago, has become general in the Volga region, according to today's Rosta reports. Reviewing the latest reports from the famine districts, the Russian wireless news service states that cases of parents going insane and eating their children are frequently mentioned.

"It does not matter how soon help comes, it will fail to save hundreds of thousands of peasants," the statement continues.

"The horses have all been eaten, and the trees for the coming year will be leafless, for the buds have been eaten. All food substitutes are gone. Famine and disease rule supreme."

Man Who Drinks Ought to Die, Reformer Says

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 16.—[Special.]—"Any man who has so little moral fiber as to drink the poison which is being illicitly sold is of no worth to society and is better off dead," said Robert C. Davies, legislative representative of the Lord's Day alliance, commenting today on the numerous deaths resulting from etherized liquor and wood alcohol.

panel, ranging from the sweet young girl juror to the nice old grandma juror.

They asked questions of witnesses and lawyers during the trial, visited the scene of the murder, the office of Kennedy, who was murdered, examined the room in the Russell hotel across the street, where Burch had lived for nearly two weeks.

They were like business men and women throughout the trial. Their office hours were the hours of court. They left their homes in the morning in time to get into the jury box at 10 o'clock. They went out to lunch at noon, in couples, in groups, single. There was no one to watch them at their meals except the waiters.

They returned to court at 2 o'clock; at 5 they went home, getting dinner for husband or the children or their grandchildren, watered the lawn, played with the dogs, went to a show, or did whatever else they please. Sunday and holidays they did no work.

Went Everywhere Alone. They went all over Los Angeles unchaperoned, and persons interested in the case sometimes found themselves in embarrassing situations. There is recorded the time that Paul Schenck got into a street car and happened to sit down beside Jurymen George Baker. He recognized Baker, and apologized.

"I'll have to leave you," he said. "Imagine what they'd say if they saw us together."

Until the last minute, the thirteenth juror, Mrs. Belle Harris, worked with the others. But when District Attorney Woolwine had finished his argument Mrs. Harris was excused, and the instructions were read to the remaining twelve.

Now, for the first time, the jury was taken into custody, as it were, and for the first time that personality of Mrs. Demott began to stand out. She was convinced that Burch was insane and she tried desperately to convince the eleven others. The only support she received was from Mrs. W. R. Bird, and that was only nominal. Mrs. Bird was certain that Burch was innocent.

Painted, Wept, and Argued. Jurors who tell the story, pledging their names to secrecy, say that Mrs. Demott fainted several times, so furious were the arguments, and that on a number of occasions she burst into uncontrollable tears, and gave way to hysteria.

Yet she would affirm again and again that she was right, that no one could change her. She argued with the others for long periods, argued with passionate fervor, and wept when she made no impression. It was Mrs. Demott who sent out last night for copies of the final arguments of the attorneys. She wanted the arguments of Attorney Schenck, especially, and took to the eleven that Burch was crazy. It was she who got the judge to come back to the court late at night that she might get the proper definition of the phrase "preponderance of evidence." She was satisfied with it. It clinched her arguments, but only to herself.

The jurors squabbled until nearly midnight last night. Then they were taken to their rooms in Hotel Rosslyn. Each juror was given a separate room there during the three nights they were locked up, and during this period the twelve took their meals under the supervision of Bailiff Reeder and Deputy Sheriff Nolan.

Got in Fighting Shape. They were so exhausted that they slept soundly, they say, and were in proper fighting shape when taken back to the court this morning in the hotel bus.

There was an optimistic feeling all during the afternoon. When the jurors filed out for dinner, one or two seemed pleasant. Mrs. Demott seemed on the verge of collapse. George Baker, a stout man, was scowling.

There was no surprise when the jurors announced it was impossible to agree; there was no surprise when it was learned that Mrs. Demott and Mrs. Bird were the two holding out.

There had been many rumors of a bitter fight between the two factions, the foreman, a clubwoman, a social worker, and the minority led by Mrs. Demott.

The jurors were questioned one by one as they left the courtroom. "Wuff," said the stout old gentleman. "Wuff, wuff; not a word. Not one damn word; wuff."

Nothing to Say, She Says. "I haven't a word to say," said Mrs. Bird, hurrying away as fast as she could.

"I'm going home and get a cake of soap and take a real bath," said Mrs. Graham.

Mrs. Demott met her husband on the corner and flew into his arms. He kissed her.

"It was terrible, dear," she said. "It was a terrible ordeal," she kept saying. "But no power on earth could make me change my opinion."

And no power on earth, apparently, could make the other women change their verdicts.

CONGRESS GETS WATERWAY PLAN O.K.'D BY EXPERTS

St. Lawrence Benefits Are Told in Report.

By ARTHUR SEARS HENNING. Washington, D. C., Jan. 16.—(Special.)—The detailed plan for the construction of the St. Lawrence seaway, which would make ocean ports of Chicago and other cities on the great lakes, was submitted to congress today, together with the recommendation of the international joint commission that the project be undertaken at once by the United States and Canada.

A bitter and probably prolonged fight over the proposed project was forecast after the report was received by Speaker Gillett from President Harding, without comment.

The speaker, instead of referring the report at once to a committee, as is usual with presidential communications, simply announced he would decide at a hearing Wednesday which of three committees should receive it. There is a difference of opinion as to whether the report should go to the merchant marine, foreign affairs, or ways and means committee.

Advocates of the improvement declared they would oppose any efforts of the merchant marine committee to get the report, because several members had expressed opposition.

Cost Put at $315,000,000. The cost of construction of a St. Lawrence ship channel of twenty-five feet draft is estimated at $252,000,000, and of the new Welland canal at $60,000,000. The undertaking, it is proposed, shall be financed by sale of bonds by the American and Canadian governments, and the bonds retired from proceeds of the sale of the vast volume of water power developed.

More than 42,000,000 persons in the middle west and far west would be benefited by this scheme to enable ocean ships to penetrate to the heart of the agricultural section, exchanging cargoes of foreign imports directly for cargoes of grain and other products.

Such eastern opposition to the project as has developed the commission finds unjustified, declaring the New York barge and other canal inadequate to relieve the acute transportation shortage and pronouncing the St. Lawrence route superior to all others for the purpose of affording the interior of the country direct access to the ocean.

List of Recommendations. The recommendations of the joint commission follow:

1. That the governments of the United States and Canada enter into an agreement, by way of treaty, for a scheme of improvement of the St. Lawrence river between Montreal and Lake Ontario.

2. That the new Welland ship canal be embodied in the scheme and treated as a part thereof.

3. That the proposed works between Montreal and Lake Ontario be based upon the report of the engineering board accompanying this report, but that before any final decision is reached the report of the board, together with such comments, criticisms, and alternative plans as have been filed with the commission be referred back to the board, enlarged by other leading members of the engineering profession, to the end that the whole question be given that further and complete study that its magnitude and importance demand, and that after completion the administrative features of this improvement be carried out as set forth in recommendations 7 and 8 hereof.

Will Study All Angles. 4. That there shall be an exhaustive investigation of the extent and character of the damage through flooding involved in the plan of development finally adopted.

5. That assuming the adoption of the plan of the engineering board or of other plans also involving a readjustment of the international boundary in order to bring each of the power houses on its own side of the boundary, appropriate steps be taken to transfer to one country or the other, as the case may be, the slight acreage of submerged land involved.

6. That Canada proceed with the work necessary for the completion of the new Welland ship canal in accordance with the plans already decided upon by that country.

7. That such "navigation works" as do not lie wholly within one country or are not capable of economic and efficient construction, maintenance, and operation within one country, as complete and independent units, be maintained and operated by a board to be called "the international board" on which each country shall have equal representation.

8. That such "navigation works," as lie wholly within one country and are capable of economic and efficient construction, maintenance, and operation as complete and independent units, be maintained and operated by the country in which they are located with the right of inspection by the said international board, to insure economy and efficiency.

9. That except as set forth in recommendation 11, the cost of all navigation works be appropriated between the two countries on the basis of the benefits each will receive from the new waterway. Provided that during the period ending five years after completion of the works—and to be known as the construction period—the ratio fixing the amount chargeable to each country shall be determined upon the certain known factors, such as the developed resources and foreign and coastwise trade of each country within the territory economically tributary to the proposed waterway, and that that ratio shall be adjusted every five years thereafter based upon the freight tonnage of each country actually using the waterway during the previous five year period.

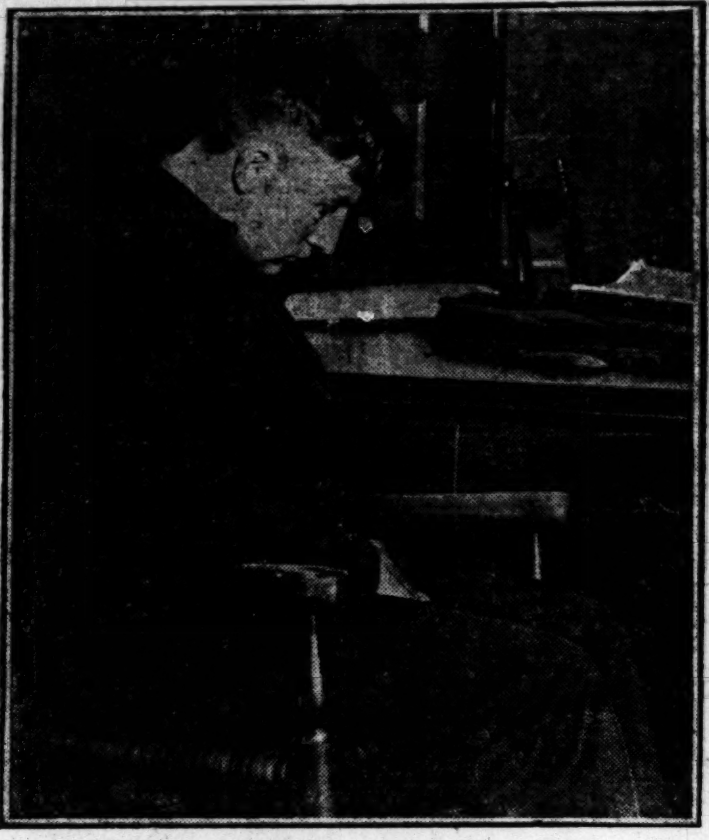

Countries Share Expenses. 11. That the cost of navigation works for the combined use of navigation and power, over and above the cost of works necessary for navigation alone, should be apportioned equally between the two countries.

The opposition to the suggested improvement centered largely in the ratio of New York, but was also supported by representatives of various public bodies in New England and some of the Atlantic coast states south of New York, as well as in the city of Montreal.

The commission is satisfied that many of those who opposed the project did so because they were convinced that it was impracticable and not in the public interest.

It is equally satisfied, however, that much of the opposition had its source in what might be called local patriotism—that is to say, that many citizens at Buffalo, Montreal, New York, Albany, Boston, and Philadelphia were determined to oppose the project because they believed that it would adversely affect the interests of Buffalo or Albany, or the New York barge canal, or the great seaports of New York, Philadelphia, Montreal, and Boston.

NEWBERRY CASE MAY ALTER U. S. CONSTITUTION

Washington, D. C., Jan. 16.—(Special.)—Measures to tighten up the election laws and prevent the recurrence of such contests as the Newberry case were proposed in the senate today.

Senator Willis offered a resolution to amend the constitution in such manner as to obviate the objections of the Supreme court in its decision on the corrupt practices act. This is the new article to the constitution suggested by Willis:

"The congress shall have power to regulate the use of money by any person in connection with the selection, nomination, or election, in any manner, of a candidate for election to the house of representatives or the senate of the United States."

"Section 2. That nothing in this article shall affect the power of any state."

The resolution and proposed amendment were referred to the judiciary committee.

Senator Pomerene offered a new rule for the senate, which virtually embodied the corrupt practices act held unconstitutional by the Supreme court. It is intended to meet the views set forth in the opinion.

DETROIT HOLDS SECRET OF PEARL NECKLACE OWNER

Bought by a Millionaire There, but Who?

New York, Jan. 16.—(Special.)—It was learned today that the famous $1,500,000 pearl necklace once owned by Catherine, former Russian empress, the price of which is involved in court proceedings between Cartier, New York jeweler, and Bengaliat Bros. Paris antique dealers, was purchased by a Detroit millionaire.

Detroit is the city of millionaires. Wealthy automobile manufacturers and others reside there. It is the home of Henry Ford and Senator Truman H. Newberry, both worth vast amounts. It also is the home of Mrs. Horace Dodge, who could also spend a million for such an expensive luxury. She gave her daughter $30,000,000 for a wedding present.

Many Society Notables. Harry Sheldon, Russell Alger, and S. S. Kresge might go in for these expensive baubles. There are, further, John Newberry and Elizabeth Newberry, relatives of the senator and socially prominent, who could purchase such an ostentatious necklace as this mysterious one.

Vitali Bengaliat, now in New York, who makes his headquarters at 4 West 56th street, says he brought the priceless trinket to New York and put the same in the hands of the Cartier firm for sale. He was paid $500,000 by Cartier. When it was sold their agreement was that Cartier should divide all profits over and above $500,000 with Bengaliat Brothers. The sale was consummated by the house of Cartier in 1920.

Such a necklace was unknown among the jewelry trade in New York. There is probably not another like it in the world. The Russian crown jewels stolen by the bolsheviks have been creeping surreptitiously into America during the last two or three years.

Fraud and Deceit Alleged. It was known that a necklace of this size and value was in possession of the late czar and was in a collection handed down by the famous and notorious Empress Catherine, who was a lover of fine pearls.

If the necklace was sold by Cartier for $1,500,000, Bengaliat claims he is entitled to a great deal more money and demands an accounting of items of expense, one of which was $41,250 traveling expense. Fraud and deceit, based on information and belief, was alleged in the complaint.

Yet, who is the beautiful bride, fiancée, or matron who is wearing a king's ransom around her neck?

COUNCIL IS URGED TO RAZE 2 CRIBS OFF LAKE FRONT

Recommendations that the Lake View and two mile cribs, the latter a landmark on which more than 1,500 persons congregated to save themselves from the Chicago fire in 1871, be razed will be considered by the council finance committee this week. The two mile crib was built nearly sixty years ago.

City Engineer Murdoch recommended that the two cribs be demolished. The connection between the Lake View and Wilson tunnels is now complete and the Lake View crib is not in use.

Mr. Murdoch advised that a connection be built between the two mile and Carter H. Harrison cribs at a cost of $386,000 so that use of the former, which is in such dilapidated condition that it could not withstand a bad storm, may be discontinued.

FIXED FOR SHOWING PICTURES. Morris Leach, 949 East 54th place, was fined $30 and costs in the jury court yesterday for displaying pictures showing the plight of Russia in Carmen's hall last November without a permit from Chief Fitzmorris.

First Exclusive Pictures of the Revolt Against British Rule in India

The British army in India is composed largely of native troops—the Gurkhas, or warrior caste of the Hindus. They have done the fighting for the Hindus since ancient times and make excellent soldiers, many of them serving in France against the Germans. Here is a detachment of Gurkhas starting out to look for Moplahs in the jungles.

This is Ali Musaliar, one of the Moplah rebel chiefs of the early days of the rebellion. He was caught and hanged.

These are Moplah prisoners going to trial at Calicut, the metropolis of the Malabar coast region, where the chief open rebellion of India has been engaging British arms. Many of these came into the British posts to give themselves up, but others were seized in the thickets of the dense jungle which covers the inland of the Malabar region and prevents the British troops from doing a thorough job of mopping up. Many of these prisoners have been charged with sedition in the early days of the revolt.

This is a burning native house in the Malabar region. The houses are built of wood and thatch dried almost to the combustibility of powder by the torrid tropical sun. Moplah houses are burned by British troops and the Moplahs burn Hindu houses with even greater gusto. The Moplahs are Moslems and carry their religion to the militant stage.

DUBLIN CASTLE CAPITULATES TO NEW IRISH STATE

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1922: By The Chicago Tribune.]

DUBLIN, Jan. 16.—[Special.]—The official Irish designation of the Irish Free State, today formally took possession of Dublin castle, the seat and symbol of the British government in Ireland for more than 700 years.

Today every activity of the government within the four seas of Ireland derives its authority from Michael Collins and seven other Irishmen who with him comprise the provisional government.

Six months ago every one of these men were either on the run or in prison. Today they drove through cheering crowds to Dublin castle, which none had ever entered before except as prisoners, to receive the surrender of the castle from the British viceroy, Lord Fitzalan. The ceremony was private.

New Government Installed.

The lord lieutenant received Mr. Collins, to whom he introduced his colleagues, and Mr. Collins handed Lord Fitzalan a copy of the treaty signed by all the members. Lord Fitzalan then congratulated the government and informed them that they were duly installed as the provisional government. He wished them every success in making a free, happy, and prosperous Ireland.

A statement issued later by the provisional government said:

"Rialtas Sealabach Na Heireann received the surrender of Dublin castle at 1:45 p. m. today. It is now in the hands of the Irish nation. For the next few days the functions of the existing departments of that institution will be continued without any prejudice to future action. The members of the provisional government will proceed to London immediately to meet a British cabinet committee to arrange various details for the handing over."

Collins Is Optimistic.

Mr. Collins said after the ceremony that he was more optimistic than ever over Ireland's prospects.

There was no representative of the provisional government left in the castle. The new government, probably will not take up quarters there, but may establish offices close by, from which they will be in close touch with all departments.

The provisional government is planning to send a commission to study the government there and to work up a constitution along Canadian lines. It is stated that Sir

MAUDE ADAMS GIVES $130,000 ESTATE TO CATHOLIC SISTERHOOD

New York, Jan. 16.—Maude Adams,

Protestant actress, has given her $130,000 country estate at Lake Ronkonkoma, L. I., to the Roman Catholic sisterhood of Our Lady of the Cenacle.

Miss Adams, who has not appeared on the stage for several years, became interested in retreats conducted by the sisters for secular women, and while in this city was accustomed to stay at the convent of St. Regis on West 160th street.

The estate, situated in one of the finest sections of Ronkonkoma, consists of a large stone residence, several out houses, and 300 acres, extensively developed and designed by prominent architects and landscape gardeners.

Robert Borden may be invited to join the drafting committee for the Irish constitution.

Dublin Is Enthusiastic.

Dublin at last is showing real enthusiasm. The taking over of the castle today was the signal for the greatest outpouring of crowds that I have seen, and both the viceroy and the provisional government were cheered heartily on entering and leaving the castle.

A motor truck loaded with baggage belonging to the Black and Tans left the castle with a big Union Jack on the hood of the car. A woman snatched the flag and a group of auxiliaries rushed out of the castle to rescue it. There was some scuffling in which one woman was slightly hurt.

Irish Inspect the Castle.

Immediately after the transfer, although the guards were not withdrawn, the public was admitted freely to the castle yard and hundreds of Dublinites who have never seen their chief building inspected it.

The city hall, adjoining Dublin castle, was handed over by the military to the corporation, and it will be reoccupied at once.

The British military authorities have arranged to begin the military evacuation this week at the rate of about one battalion daily. It will take between two and three months to complete the evacuation.

CITY WINS POINT IN ITS FIGHT ON CAR FRANCHISES

Chester E. Cleveland won a minor point yesterday in the city's suit to forfeit the franchises of the Chicago Surface Lines. Attorney H. P. Weber, for the companies, desired that the exceptions of Mr. Cleveland's to the company's answer be stricken out. Judge Hugo M. Friend declined to do so. The court will hear arguments next Saturday on the city's exceptions.

Attorney Jacob Legron today filed a petition with Federal Judge Carpenter to have the Surface Lines held for contempt of court because he alleged that a sign ordered by the court is not in all cars. This sign notifies the passenger that a transfer is a receipt for his 5 cent fare and he is entitled to retain and retain a transfer.

Tenny said Cleveland had declined to bid. The hearing on the petition is scheduled for this afternoon. At the same time Judges Carpenter, Evans, and Page will hear oral arguments on the form of the decree for an interlocutory injunction against the 5 cent fare.

Here are types of the leaders of the Moplah tribes of southwest India which are causing the most trouble for the British military forces at this time. They are standing in front of their home in Calicut.

BANKER SEEKS NEWS OF MISSING WIFE, DAUGHTER

New York, Jan. 16.—[Special.]—Mrs.

Ellia Ariene Bull, wife of Aubrey H. Bull, teller in the Harriman National bank of this city; Ellanore Louise Bull, their 7 year old daughter, and Ralph Costa of Ridgewood, the family chauffeur, have been missing since Dec. 31 from the Bull home in Ridgewood, N. Y. Their disappearance became known today when Mr. Bull appealed to newspapers for the aid of publicity in tracing his wife and child.

"On Dec. 31," said Mr. Bull this morning, "Mrs. Bull drew $1,000 from a Ridgewood bank, told her maid she was going to meet me at 5th avenue and 42d street, and took Ellanore with her on foot—apparently to catch a train."

"I believe that on her way to the station she was picked up in my car by my chauffeur, Ralph Costa, the son of a well-to-do family in Ridgewood. The engagement at 5th avenue and 42d street never was kept by Mrs. Bull, who has not been heard from since. She is reported to have been seen with her daughter and Costa in the car leaving Ridgewood about 2 o'clock on that afternoon."

WILSON TO FIGHT 4 PLY TREATY, IS SENATE RUMOR

Washington, D. C., Jan. 16.—[Special.]—Information came to Democratic members of the senate today that Woodrow Wilson would oppose the four power treaty.

While nothing official has come from Mr. Wilson, the understanding about the senate for some time has been that he was inclined to view the treaty as not in keeping with the league of nations and as a continuation of the balance of power system.

The former President is expected soon to make some form of a public announcement of his views.

Hall and Aitchison Obtain Reappointments to I. C. C.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 16.—The senate late today confirmed the nominations of Commissioners Aitchison and Hall of the interstate commerce commission, who were reappointed by the President. The senate action ends a protracted fight waged by several southern senators.

GAS COMPANY TO ACCEPT RATE AS FIXED BY STATE

The gas company made the definite announcement yesterday that it will not attack the new gas rate. President Insull announced last week when the rate was cut from $1.15 to $1 per 1,000 cubic feet that it was his intention to put it into effect.

The cut in rates appears to be satisfactory to investors also. The quotations for selected days, including the day when the rate was reduced and yesterday, follow:

Date	High	Low	Close
Oct. 6	52	52	52
Dec. 6	57	56	56 1/4
Jan. 6	61 1/4	61 1/4	61 1/4
Jan. 12	61	61	61
Jan. 16	65	64	65

The purpose of the appeal to the courts is—as heretofore related in THE TRIBUNE—to recoup the dividends lost in four years totalling more than $12,000,000, and not to contest the new rate ordered into effect Feb. 1.

Italians Can Own Land in California, Court Decides

Washington, D. C., Jan. 16.—A treaty with a foreign nation superseding a state statute relating to the holding of real estate, the Supreme court today in effect held in refusing to consider any appeal which H. S. Herrick sought to bring from the Supreme court of California against A. Bascetta, an Italian. The state court held that the California law prohibiting an Italian from holding property in the state was invalid because in conflict with the treaty of 1871 with Italy.

Announces Firm Stand on Dominion.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

BOMBAY, Jan. 16.—Mahatma Gandhi, addressing an Indian nonparty conference called by Pundit Malviya yesterday, urged the release of all political prisoners and protested against the "excesses committed by the government under the pretext of maintaining law and order."

He stated he was willing to attend a round table conference with Viceroy Lord Reading, but he wanted a change in heart on the part of the government and also penitence for the grievous wrongs. He said he would refuse anything short of a dominion status for India. Other speakers disapproved of the government's policy of repression.

Police Stop Meeting.

CALCUTTA, Jan. 16.—[By the Associated Press.]—The North Calcutta congress committee tried on Sunday to hold a meeting in contravention of a governmental prohibition. The police dispersed the gathering and arrested the chairman and nineteen others. An attempt later in the evening to hold another meeting resulted in the arrest of 114 persons.

Delete "Christ" from Bible.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—[United Press.]—To avoid offending Hindus and Mohammedans, English missionaries in Bangalore, India, have deleted the name of Christ from the book of hymns and prayers used in the mission schools. The natural consequence of this is a storm among the supporters of the London Missionary society, but the board has endorsed the action of the missionaries.

On two previous occasions the question had been before the London parent society, but continued uneasiness among supporters of Indian missions again forced the issue to a head. One of the directors of the missionary society proposed this resolution: "That no sanction whatever can be given to the exclusion of the name and work of the Lord Jesus Christ from any part of the society's operations in schools, churches, or hospitals."

The resolution was defeated, with only two affirmative votes—those of the proposer and seconder. But these two members of the board declare they will continue to fight against the action of the missionaries.

COST OF LIVING DOWN TO 1918 LEVEL, U. S. SAYS

Rents Go Up, but Food
Gets Cheaper.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Cost of living in Chicago now stands where it did about the time the armistice was signed—the clock has been turned back just three years.

In December cost of living was 19.7 per cent lower than in June, 1920, the peak. It was 3.5 below the mark of last May and 1.7 per cent beneath that of September—the rate of its recession during the last seven or eight months has been about one-half of 1 per cent per month.

It was still 72.3 per cent higher than it was in December, 1914.

These figures just issued by the bureau of labor statistics of the United States department of labor.

Rent boosts gobbled up a large portion of the drop in food and clothing. Coal and other fuel also, by moving upwards, balanced off some of the drop. During the eighteen months between June 15, 1920, and Dec. 15, 1921, the tables show the following relative trend in the cost of the necessities of life: The price of the food which goes into the ordinary family budget fell 32.5 per cent in price. Clothing was reduced almost 43 per cent. Furniture and furnishings decreased 26 per cent.

Others Go Up.

Meanwhile, however, rents increased 35.6 per cent, fuel and light went up 4.3 per cent, and miscellaneous items, which take up about one-fifth of the expenditures of the "typical family," elevated themselves 3.7 per cent.

Balanced off, the decrease in prices of everything coming into the "average" family budget amounted during the year and a half to about a one-fifth chop. It was a tumble of 19.7 per cent, to use the bureau's figure. The government's estimates, which are regarded as the most authoritative of the various compilations, put the present cost of living somewhat higher than do the tables of the national industrial conference board and other agencies.

Average Family Is Five.

The cost of living figures are based on a family of five as a typical standard. In "weighting" the budget the bureau figures that out of every $10 spent on living costs by the "average" wage earner's family in Chicago, $3.78 goes for food, $1.80 for clothing, $1.49 for rent, 60 cents for light and fuel, 44 cents for furnishings, and $2.06 for miscellaneous items.

The following tabulation shows how cost of living in Chicago now stands as compared with 1914, and where it stood at the peak in June, 1920:

% inc. from Dec. 1914, to June, 1920, Dec. 1921.	June, 1920, Dec. 1921.
Food	120.0 48.3
Clothing	205.3 74.3
Housing	201.1 83.9
Fuel and light	62.4 69.4
Furniture and furnishings	219.9 133.7
Miscellaneous	87.5 94.5
Total, "weighted"	114.6 72.3

Of five large cities for which figures are given, Chicago stands next to the lowest in cost of living mark. The comparative increases from December, 1914, to Dec. 15 last are: Detroit, 32.4 per cent; New York, 75.1 per cent; Philadelphia, 74.3 per cent; Chicago, 72.3 per cent; Washington, 63 per cent.

DENNY AND HIS SMILE

Traffic Policeman Dennis Hayes, stationed at State and Madison, who refused to do aught but smile under the most extreme provocation, thereby winning The Tribune's $100 award.

SMILING UNDER DIFFICULTY GETS 'TRAFFIC COP $100

State and Madison Jam Can't Worry Him.

Wary of tramping the hard loop pavements, the smile detector came to a halt at exactly 4:15 yesterday afternoon at State and Madison streets, which, as all Chicagoans modestly will admit, is "the busiest corner in the world."

And at that moment, when he had come to believe that smiles were not to be found in the busy whirl that had enveloped him, a smile—yes, a big, broad, healthy, glowing one—pruded from the gloom like a ray of sunshine from the mist.

'Twas Officer Hayes' Smile.

That smile was at the top of a big and burly figure in a blue uniform. It was under a blue helmet. And it belonged to Officer Dennis Hayes, if you please, sorrily "sixteen years in the traffic squad and practically all of them on this corner."

The smile detector caught that flashing smile as he turned to blow a mighty blast from his whistle and to motion with a great and decisive sweep of a majestic arm for the traffic to move to the east and west. He caught it as the policeman stood thus poised for a moment nodding and waving a friendly and cheerful hand to taximeters and chauffeurs and street car men and bus drivers, Jesus of all description.

When the whistle was blown as a signal to the north and south traffic the big unraveler of the Gordian traffic knots turned his face away and the detector could not tell whether he smiled or not.

But when the other signal was blown again and he pivoted around so that his face came again into view the smile was still—or again—there.

The detector now eased through the rumbling traffic to the big policeman's side.

"Say," he said, looking up at him and forcing his attention in the midst of a lot of sharp, quick gestures to drivers and street car men. "Say, you haven't got a chew of tobacco on you, have you?"

For just a moment the smile turned to an expression of surprise and then it came back again.

"No," was the rejoinder, "that I haven't; ye see, I never use the stuff. Ye might thry my parrrrrrr, across the street."

"What kind of a chew do you think he might have?" asked the detector, and again he got a fleeting glance of surprise.

And Dennis Laughs.

"Well, I think he chews this loose scrap, I'm not sure."

"That's too bad," said the detector. "I wanted a chew of plug."

"Ha, ha, ha, ha," laughed Pathrolman Dennis Hayes. "Ho, how, how, how; that's pretty good," and then the detector plucked him by the sleeve and told him the glad news about the $100.

Well, sir, after that you just couldn't stop him from laughing and smiling; and after they had taken his picture he rushed to a telephone to call Mrs. Dennis Hayes, and this is the way he told her about it:

"Hello—hello! O, is that you, kid? Well, do you know who this is talking? Yes, it's me; and what do ye think? The Tribune is after giving me $100. What for? Well, I like that; for my smiling, now what else . . . O, you will, will you . . . well, I'll see you later. G'bye."

And he hung up laughing and said: "And right away she wants to go fifty-fifty with me, now what do ye think of that?"

MRS. HONEYMAN WINS FIGHT TO CONTROL ESTATE

Heir of Speedometer King
Has Guardians Ousted.

Riverhead, N. Y., Jan. 16.—Mrs. Robert B. Honeyman Jr., 20, daughter of the late John K. Stewart, wealthy speedometer manufacturer, today won her fight to have revoked the letters of guardianship held by Martin Taylor of New York and Leander H. La Chance of Chicago.

Mrs. Honeyman claimed that having moved to Chicago since her marriage she now was entitled to handle her own affairs, because she was a resident of Illinois, where the legal age for women is 18.

Surrogate Robert S. Pelletreau upheld the claim, but ruled that it was unnecessary to consider charges of mismanagement which Mrs. Honeyman had preferred against her former guardians.

The surrogate granted letters of administration to Mrs. Honeyman's husband and father-in-law and the Suffolk County National bank of Riverhead.

Dropped Name of O'Brien.

Stewart died in June, 1916, at his country home near Huntington, L. I., leaving an estate valued at more than $6,000,000, with his interests located chiefly in Chicago. In the course of the litigation it was brought out that, born Terence O'Brien, he had changed his name on rising to power in the financial world.

The court held that the laws of New York state setting 21 as the legal age applied only to a ward domiciled in New York and that a principle of comity decreed that one state should make effective in its courts the legislation of another.

WON'T CONTEST DECISION.

Leander La Chance, uncle of Mrs. Robert B. Honeyman, declared last night that he would not appeal from the decision of the New York courts.

He said that the late John K. Stewart did not own any of the stock of the Stewart-Warner Speedometer corporation at the time of his death and that the present litigation would in no way affect that company.

MINISTERS CALL COUNCIL ACTION ON BEER ILLEGAL

The city council was charged yesterday with spending money that did not belong to it in resolutions passed by the Baptist, Congregational and Methodist ministers at their various meetings.

The action was based on the action of the council in sending copies of the resolution asking for the use of wine and beer to the city council of other cities. "A base betrayal of trust" was one of the expressions used in defining the council's action.

The second anniversary of the passing of the eighteenth amendment was observed by the various ministerial bodies by adopting resolutions condemnatory of the city council, which were ordered sent to the mayor, chief of police, members of the council and the representatives in congress. The ministers pledged support to dry candidates at the primaries April 11.

'HORRIBLE FATE' OF VETERANS IN HOSPITALS TOLD

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)

Washington, D. C., Jan. 16.—(Special.)—More than 3,500 mentally disabled ex-service men, now in state institutions, are victims of "such gross neglect, indifference, and profligating as to constitute a black reproach on the honor of the nation."

This assertion was made by the Disabled Veterans of the World War in a memorial presented today to President Harding, urging immediate action by the federal government to remedy the situation.

Cites a "Horrible Example."

Describing the condition of "contract" cases of this class in Ohio institutions as typical of those in "practically every state, the memorial asserted the government had "famed out the insane ex-service men of Ohio to state asylums notoriously overcrowded, undermanned, and inadequately equipped to treat and care for them," while it has not provided one federal institution for this purpose in the state.

"For example, the memorial said, 'in the Longview asylum of Hamilton county, O., there are forty-two gallant soldiers who broke down mentally under the stress of war, although Longview is so overcrowded that 240 of the inmates sleep on the floor like cattle every night.'

"Mental Cases Neglected."

Of the 250 mentally disabled placed in all the institutions of the state, of whom, it was said, physicians believe half might be cured by treatment, not one, the memorial asserted, was receiving "medical treatment of any kind for their mental diseases, and curable cases are being daily doomed to permanent insanity."

None of these institutions segregated their tubercular patients, it was asserted.

An average profit of $300 on each patient out of the $500.00 annual government maintenance fee was shown in figures for the nine institutions of the state cited in the memorial as recently having been made public by Dr. H. S. MacAyeal, director of the state welfare department.

ILLINOISAN KILLS WIFE, DAUGHTER, AND SON WITH AX

Charleston, Ill., Jan. 16.—Calmly walking into the sheriff's office here early this morning, B. F. Monroney, aged 54 years, sat down and waited for Sheriff Aye to put in his appearance. When Aye came in Monroney completely upset him and Deputy Tom Sanders with the statement that he had killed his wife, son, and daughter this morning before any of them had awakened. He crushed their skulls with an ax.

Monroney explained that financial troubles caused him to decide to exterminate his family and kill himself; that he went out to the barn and tried to hang himself, but says he could not get the rope tied securely and had to give up the attempt.

Monroney was a hard working man and was highly thought of by those who knew him here, but had been acting queerly.

A bad note is partly blamed for Monroney's deed. He had purchased his home here and was unable to keep up payments because unable to collect a note he held for $900.

It is said that several years ago Monroney's father committed suicide by cutting his throat and that later, about ten years ago, a brother ended his life by hanging himself.

Mrs. Florence Hart Stafford, 514 Linden avenue, Oak Park, was granted a divorce yesterday by Judge Lynch from her husband, Charles W. Stafford, a leather dealer, with offices at 209 West Lake street. Mrs. Stafford charged her husband was intoxicated too frequently for their domestic happiness.

Mrs. Stafford was a Detroit widow before her marriage to Stafford. In the settlement of property rights she gave her husband $2,000 and was given the Oak Park residence, said to be worth $35,000, in lieu of her dower and homestead interests. Mr. Stafford has three children by a former marriage.

HUGHES STARTS FINAL CLEANUP OF CONFERENCE

Adoption of New Chinese
Tariff Clears Way.

BY GRAFTON WILCOX.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 16.—[Special.]—Secretary Hughes and the American delegation today started their drive in the Washington conference to conclude consideration of Chinese and other far eastern questions with a view to final adjournment of the conference as soon as possible.

Chairman Hughes did not call a meeting of the far eastern committee until assured by the Japanese and Chinese delegates that it would not interfere with their negotiation of the Shantung issue, sentiment of which is growing more hopeful each day.

After the Japanese and Chinese this morning had disposed of restitution of the former German leasehold of Kiaochow to China, the general committee on the far east ratified the resolutions of the Underwood subcommittee to give China an effective 5 per cent tariff and providing means for making the revision effective.

To Be Considered Today.

Thereupon the question of the open door in China was brought up at the suggestion of Secretary Hughes and will be considered again tomorrow.

With respect to the important question of Japan's twenty-one demands upon China and the treaty of 1915, Secretary Hughes, according to Dr. Alfred Sze, suggested that its consideration be postponed until Shantung had been determined, Shantung being involved in the twenty-one demands. This was agreed to without opposition.

A definition by Secretary Hughes of the open door, according to Sze, probably will be adopted by the conference. The British delegation also offered an "open door" definition which did not conflict with the Hughes outline, but was less comprehensive.

Hughes Defines "Open Door."

The Hughes definition, it was stated, was based upon the American secretary of state's letter to Minister Sze of July 10 last, in which he said:

"The government of the United States has never associated itself with any arrangement which sought to establish any special rights or privileges in China which would abridge the rights of the subjects or citizens of other friendly states, and I am happy to assure you that it is the purpose of this government neither to participate nor to acquiesce in any arrangement which might purport to establish in favor of foreign interests any superiority or rights with respect to commercial or economic development in designated regions of the territories of China or which might seem to create any such monopoly or preference as would exclude other nationals from undertaking any legitimate trade or industry or from participating with the Chinese government in any category of public enterprise."

JAPAN FIRM FOR PACIFIC FORTS.

TOKIO, Jan. 16.—[United Press.]—The Japanese diplomatic council has approved the cabinet's decision to insist firmly that the Bonin and Loo Islands groups shall be included in the Japanese mainland group when the question of limiting and destroying Pacific island fortifications is settled at Washington.

The arms conference at Washington decided that Japan must destroy the fortifications on certain island groups in the Pacific. A dispute arose as to which of the groups were "island possessions" of the empire, and which constituted a part of Japan proper.

Japan is trying to trade its "right" to fortify the Bonins for a promise by the United States not to fortify Guam.

Big Army Cut.

TOKIO, Jan. 16.—[By the Associated Press.]—The Japanese war office, regardless of the outcome of the Washington conference, plans reduction of the mikado's land forces by 50,000 men within five years, according to the Tokyo Nichi Nichi. To make up for the consequent loss in effectiveness, advanced types of machine rifles, anti-aircraft guns, tanks, and other engines and arms will be attached to each fighting unit.

expecting tonight that a plenary session could be held by Thursday to dispose of the naval treaty finally. It was insisted by an American spokesman tonight that, while there had been no change in spirit of that agreement, the process which is now going on is to make the agreement perfectly clear and definite as to islands to be included in the status quo provision. The American delegation is insisting upon this.

The outstanding question, it is understood, concerns the phraseology relating to the fortifications in the islands of Bonin, Riuiku, and Oshima, which constitute a part of Japan proper, and to Formosa and other islands which belong to Japan, but do not belong to Japan proper. The islands mandated to Japan are excluded from the agreement, as the mandate which it is expected the United States will recognize specifically forbids their fortification. This express prohibition, it is understood, was satisfactory to the American delegates.

STATE TO FIGHT SMALL PLEA FOR SEPARATE TRIAL

Contents Two Cases Must
"March Together."

Gov. Len Small's motion for a separate trial, scheduled before Judge Claire C. Edwards at Waukegan next Saturday, is to be fought vigorously by the state.

By agreement, Attorney C. C. LeForge, chief of counsel for the defense, is to furnish State's Attorney Mortimer of Sangamon county a copy of his motion to separate the cases of Gov. Small and Vernon S. Curtis by tomorrow. The principal part of this document will be an affidavit setting up that the prosecution of the two cases simultaneously would result in the introduction of evidence against one of the defendants which would injuriously affect the other, although it would not be proper evidence for the jury in the second man's case.

Hold Evidence Identical.

With this affidavit in their possession, attorneys for the state will prepare their reply. In effect this will be a contention that the evidence in the two cases is the same, that the two cases "march side by side in perfect time" from the beginning of the alleged conspiracy to the finish.

Lieut. Gov. Fred E. Sterling, the third defendant, already has obtained a separate trial. But it was explained that while Sterling is not charged with entering the conspiracy until the beginning of his term as state treasurer in 1919, the association of Gov. Small, Vernon Curtis and the late E. C. Curtis in the alleged scheme to withhold state funds had been in operation since early in Small's term as treasurer, which began in 1917.

Le Forge Changes His Plea.

In this connection one of the interesting points discussed among the lawyers following last Saturday's hearing was Attorney Le Forge's statement that he had prepared the affidavit for severance but was compelled by Judge Edwards' ruling to prepare a new one. This was taken as the equivalent of a statement that he had counted upon a decision of a different sort than the one given following his attack on the state's bill of particulars.

BANDIT FLEES AS WIDOW WAVES BIG BREAD KNIFE

Mrs. Freda Karisch, a widow, 1703 Washburne avenue, did not faint when a man tried to force his way into her home last night. The bandit almost did. For she scared him away with a long bread knife. He told her he was the "gas man."

Mrs. Karisch became suspicious, as the man wore no uniform. When she refused to open the door, he attempted to force his way into the room. She grabbed a bread knife from the table, and he dashed down the rear steps.

PRINCESS MARY WILL MARRY IN CLOTH OF SILVER

LONDON, Jan. 16.—[By the Associated Press.]—Princess Mary's wedding gown is to be of cloth of silver, of magnificent design. The material was brought by the queen from India some years ago, and is described as a triumph of native manufacture.

The dress will have a train of ivory silk, shot with silver, which is being woven by hand workers at Baintree, Essex, an old English silk manufacturing center, where the art of silk weaving has been passed down from generation to generation. So great is the care taken in the manufacture of this material that only a few inches are finished each day. The train is expected to be ready soon, and it will then be placed in the hands of the embroiderers.

It is officially announced that Princess Mary's bridesmaids will be Princess Maud, younger daughter of the princess royal; Lady Rachel Cavendish, fourth daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire; Lady Mary Thynne, youngest daughter of the Marquis of Bath; Lady Victoria Mary Cambridge, elder daughter of the Marquis of Cambridge; Lady Doris Gordon-Lennox, younger daughter of the Earl of March; Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, youngest daughter of the Earl of Strathmore; Lady Diana Bridgeman, eldest daughter of the Earl of Bradford; and Lady May Cambridge, only daughter of the Earl of Atholone.

SENATORS ADD ONE MEMBER TO RESERVE BOARD

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 16.—[Special.]—Objections by President Harding to the proposal that the executive be required to appoint a "dirt" farmer as a member of the federal reserve board to the presentation of a compromise substitute in the senate today by Senator Kellogg of Minnesota. This action followed a conference of several senators with the President.

Indications appear to be that the compromise will be approved by the senate tomorrow when the legislation comes up for action, although it is not entirely satisfactory to some of the senators on both sides of the controversy.

Adds One More Member.

The Kellogg substitute increases the number of appointive members of the federal reserve board from five to six and provides that in making appointments "the President shall have due regard to a fair representation of the financial, agricultural, industrial and commercial interests and geographical divisions of the country."

The clause in the present law which requires that two members of the board shall be experienced in banking and finance is eliminated. The present law does not contain the word "agricultural" in specifying what interests shall be given consideration by the President in selecting the five appointive members.

Wants All Represented.

"I do not believe it is good policy to direct the President to put on two bankers or to put on one member representing agriculture," said Senator Kellogg. "I believe that he should give due consideration to all classes."

Senator McLean of Connecticut, chairman of the committee on banking and currency, which reported to the senate a bill retaining the present number of appointive members, but providing that the President should give due consideration to the interests of agriculture as well as to finance, commerce, and industry, indicated that he did not see the need for the addition of another member.

Senator Smith of South Carolina, who offered the substitute making it mandatory upon the President to appoint a farmer the first time the term of any present member expires or a vacancy occurs, informed the senate that he would accept the Kellogg substitute.

Wants All Represented.

"I do not believe it is good policy to direct the President to put on two bankers or to put on one member representing agriculture," said Senator Kellogg. "I believe that he should give due consideration to all classes."

Senator McLean of Connecticut, chairman of the committee on banking and currency, which reported to the senate a bill retaining the present number of appointive members, but providing that the President should give due consideration to the interests of agriculture as well as to finance, commerce, and industry, indicated that he did not see the need for the addition of another member.

Senator Smith of South Carolina, who offered the substitute making it mandatory upon the President to appoint a farmer the first time the term of any present member expires or a vacancy occurs, informed the senate that he would accept the Kellogg substitute.

Indications appear to be that the compromise will be approved by the senate tomorrow when the legislation comes up for action, although it is not entirely satisfactory to some of the senators on both sides of the controversy.

Adds One More Member.

The Kellogg substitute increases the number of appointive members of the federal reserve board from five to six and provides that in making appointments "the President shall have due regard to a fair representation of the financial, agricultural, industrial and commercial interests and geographical divisions of the country."

The clause in the present law which requires that two members of the board shall be experienced in banking and finance is eliminated. The present law does not contain the word "agricultural" in specifying what interests shall be given consideration by the President in selecting the five appointive members.

Wants All Represented.

"I do not believe it is good policy to direct the President to put on two bankers or to put on one member representing agriculture," said Senator Kellogg. "I believe that he should give due consideration to all classes."

THE TRIBUNE'S PLATFORM FOR CHICAGO

1—Build the Subway Now.

LEVY MAYER IS NOT ON THE TRIBUNE

Miss Helen Hood, president of the Illinois W. C. T. U., told a hundred people in a Sunday night Evanston meeting that Levy Mayer might have written the TRIBUNE editorial of last Saturday—"The New Fight for Liberty." We say he couldn't have done so, but that may be professional pride in special training.

Levy Mayer as attorney for distillers fought the eighteenth amendment as long as he had a leg to stand on and was finally knocked out by the Supreme court. THE TRIBUNE supports the new Association Opposed to Prohibition and therefore Miss Hood thinks that Levy Mayer must have THE TRIBUNE on his pay roll.

So far as we know Mr. Mayer was in the newspaper business only once, when he dropped a small fortune trying to build up a rival against THE TRIBUNE. He managed to sell it before it had him out on the street selling shoe laces, and so far as we know he remains in comfortable circumstances in spite of his attempt to be an editor. We do know that he is not now editing THE TRIBUNE and never did, as Miss Hood or any other W. C. T. U. official might discover by making a few inquiries.

There is nothing secret about the management of THE TRIBUNE or about the influences which direct it. Any one of a hundred and fifty advertising agencies could give Miss Hood any information concerning control of this paper which she might ask for. The published statements of the paper give it, and if she and her associates have any doubt they might try a ruse to see what they could purchase for a bad cause by offering advertising or money in its behalf.

THE TRIBUNE threw out whiskey advertising long before any one thought that national prohibition had the chance of a sheep in the stockyards. THE TRIBUNE gave up more money for the sake of temperance than any professional prohibitionist or any hundred of them ever contributed to the cause.

THE TRIBUNE is against the saloon, against the traffic in liquor, against about everything in this traffic that Levy Mayer as attorney for distillers would be interested in. THE TRIBUNE also is against the rule of life which these reformers are trying to pin on the American people.

It is against outrages against individual life and habit. It is against the inquisitorial, supervising, regulating, censoring dictatorship of government. It is for individual conscience and choice of life within the ordinary application of laws for the protection of society. It does not believe that a man who wants a glass of wine or beer, or six glasses of wine or beer or even of spirits, is a criminal.

Every time a protest is made against the moral dictatorship of this government some inspired reformer exclaims that the person protesting wants a drink. What if he does? If he didn't there would be no eighteenth amendment. He wants the right to do as he thinks fit in matters which concern him. When a government denies that right and says it is because here and there a person does wrong and involves other persons in his wrongdoing, government has become a tyrant of the fit to be a shepherd of the unfit.

If all life in the United States is to be reduced to the needs of the imbecile, the weak will, and the pervers, the United States will cease to be a place where any self-contained, intelligent, liberty loving citizen would wish to dwell.

This W. C. T. U. lecturer in Evanston, with her readiness to slander and accuse, is the arch type of the reformer who regards a difference of opinion as infamy and a difference in habit as moral turpitude. There are evils in drink, but they are not half as bad as the evils of intolerance and moral autocracy.

It was better that this nation were one-half intoxicated and the other half intelligent than that the whole were moral invertebrates ruled by slandering reformers.

EASY MONEY.

A Corporation Counsel Ettelson has advised the city council that it has no control over the spending of improvement bond funds and that Mr. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, will shovel it out.

Mr. Faherty is a municipal Coal Oil Johnny. He is the most popular man about town who ever said "Keep the change." When he O. K.'d the $2,443,666 expert fees for the five experts he was ashamed because he thought he was cheating them. The appellate court has decided that in certain street improvements the city council, in passing the ordinance authorizing the bond issue, did not retain specifically the power to control expenditures. The case has been taken to the Supreme court and the aldermen who fear Faherty when on the loose hope that the court will find that control was retained, as the council intended it to be.

We hope the aldermen manage to get Faherty and Ettelson roped again and can see some fish-hooks in the city's money bags. These free spenders are always wanting to know what the boys in the back room will have. Their motto is: "There is more where this came from."

The gold dust family is a gay one, but the poor old city has a headache from looking at the bills.

OPEN THE MUNICIPAL LODGING HOUSE.

The question of whether or not we are to have a municipal lodging house is being neglected. It should not be. The unemployment commission has voted unanimously for the lodging house. The council finance committee favors it. The best opinion in the town, we believe, demands it. A matter of $18,000 is involved on the money side and a mere technicality obstructs unless the opposition ascribed to Chief Fitzmorris is to control. The arguments in favor of opening the lodging house seem to us much more weighty than that which is against it. The latter seems to be that the lodging will attract floaters from outside the city. Floaters come to the city anyway and the fact that there is a lodging house will not greatly increase their numbers. They come and many of them are a nuisance and a danger to us, but the lodging house will decrease the danger even if it increases the number of the floaters.

This is the consideration that ought to control. The lodging house is a means of ameliorating the situation of the unemployed so they will be the less tempted to crime. It is a means of surveillance so that instead of wandering about the city exposed to the worst influences and to the worst temptations, they can be given a little human care and supervision.

Every great city maintains such lodging as a useful if not necessary agency. It is almost as old an institution as the city and it has lasted because the need for it has persisted. Some day, we hope, there will be no need for such an institution, but that day is not yet.

Meanwhile unemployment increases and suffering with it. The next two months will be the hardest of the winter. The lodging house should be provided for and opened at once.

IF THE COAL STRIKE COMES.

Forecasters of a coal miners' strike not later than March 31, when the present agreement on wages and working rules expires, are growing in certainty. Before it comes it would be well for the public as well as the miners and operators to look closely into conditions and probable results.

For some years past, while the United States was busily engaged in manufacture for war requirements and extravagant post-war demands, the miners enjoyed unprecedented strength and importance. So great were profits and so demoralizing the "cost plus" system that the price of coal was a minor detail. Wages and working rules were merely a detail of that detail. Lack of coal then would have been a disaster. The government took charge and gave the miners whatever they asked.

The resultant high prices, due in part to high wages, in part to high freight rates, and in part to high profits, have been projected from that situation into the present situation, which is entirely different. Then industry could profit from coal at any price. Now industry will take coal only at a price on which it can profit, which is small. The high price has helped to depress industry. The demand, and the miners' annual income, therefore, is reduced despite the fact that the wage scale remains up.

Then the American miners and operators had no competition. They produced coal for export as well as domestic needs. Now they are meeting competition. Not only do they no longer produce for export, but British coal is being offered at Atlantic coast ports below the price of American coal. American miners are confronted with the competition of both foreign coal and the more cheaply operated American mines. The situation has changed so completely that the attitude of both miners and operators must inevitably be changed to meet it.

A writer from the coal fields of Illinois complains that our idea "seems to be to reduce wages that enough men will be forced to find other occupations to reduce coal prices that part of the operators will have to go out of business?" The latter development, in effect, we believe, is taking place, although instead of the operators reducing prices the country is reducing demand to force them out of business. Many mines are closed. The higher the prices the more there will be closed. It is of small moment to the miner who is thrown out of work whether he closed the mine or the operator closed it.

The altered economic condition of this country and of foreign countries is forcing a readjustment. Economic forces stronger than any union or any organization of operators eventually will bring acceptance of such readjustment. A strike will fail because high wages and high prices, in the mines, on the railroads, and on the operators' balance sheets, have helped reduce American factories to a state of coma where they can make no demand for coal which will strengthen the miners' position.

When England's disastrous coal strike was on we exported coal. Now, even without a strike here, we are importing it. With a strike it is apparent any small needs which our paralyzed industries may have above the available supply will be filled. American miners inevitably will lose. Both wages and profits must come down before demand and average annual incomes can go up.

Editorial of the Day

THE AGRICULTURAL BLOC IN THE SENATE.

[Spokane Spokesman-Review.] In an address at Denver, Gov. Samuel R. McKelvie, who represents one of the distinctively agricultural states of the union—Nebraska—criticized the agricultural bloc in the senate. It took courage for him to declare that "if the agricultural bloc should prove successful we would soon find our legislative bodies sharply divided into groups representing various class movements and interests—labor, finance, industry and so on."

Gov. McKelvie is fundamentally right. If the purpose of the senators who constitute the agricultural bloc were to found a permanent class party in congress it would be unwise and narrow. But it is the Spokesman-Review's understanding that the senators have such a purpose. They realized that a crisis was upon the agricultural industry, and that for the time being it needed championship. In their judgment there was no other way of the farmer's getting proper recognition in this hour of crisis. The Spokesman-Review ventures the surmise that some people are becoming unduly alarmed over this temporary formation of an agricultural bloc. The alignments properly criticized by Gov. McKelvie would be detrimental to the country if they were made permanent. Fortunately, the spirit of our institutions and the purposes of the American people are against permanent class organization in congress and the state legislatures.

With the recovery of agriculture and the return of the country to normal conditions, we have no doubt that congress will swing back to the old alignments of party formations.

OUR BETTER DAY.

[Aurora Beacon-News.] Here's a page from an old diary: "Sept. 18, 1873—Jay Cooke & Co., bankers of New York, fail. A financial panic is precipitated. The New York clearing house is forced to suspend. The presidents of the banks meet in council to devise ways of relief. President Grant declines to accede to the bankers' request to aid the banks with the treasury balance of $44,000,000. Runs are made on banks and private bankers, and many strong houses fail during the ensuing ten days." Americans lately have been talking about business depression. Compared with some of the old time panics, slodging is easy. Get grandpa to tell you about 1873. Then you'll appreciate the federal reserve banking system, the stock absorber.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

TO OLIVE DOUGLAS.

Shy Olive, wintry winds, town-tainted, flung
Thee to my ken! Chill fingers turned the sheet
Where, stark and cold-tipped underneath the sheet,
A maiden moaned of modesty and shame.
Ah, had we met 'neath southern heavens strung
With starry pearls, the pendent moon replete
With inspiration! Then were praise complete
And sung unfettered by this stiffened tongue.

Thou reekest not of perfume diabolic—
I know this well, thou hast my tribute on it—
When lips meet thine they tempt no "painter's colic!"

No hair of henna heats thy modest bonnet;
About thy shins no flapping gum-boots frolic.
Shake, Olive, o'er thy bleak Chicago sonnet.
LOU LEONER.

MILTON YOWITZ was thrown off the debating team at the University of Chicago, not because he lacked in eloquence but because he couldn't chin himself on a horizontal bar ten times. It's a requirement of the physical culture department. So Yowitz cannot defend the honor of the Midway to the joint debate with Northwestern. We told Old Parke Brown about it, just as he was starting off for the city hall. "When that Baptist outfit comes up to Evanston to tackle Northwestern," opined Mr. Brown, "it is not so important that they be able to chin themselves ten times as that they should be able to do the mile in ten flat." Yes, he went to school there.

THE MOTTO THAT DARNED NEAR RUINED ME.
The Line o' Type will present a membership in the Legion o' the Line and a handsomely embroidered doughnut for the motto in which you trusted and followed as a guide until it nearly ruined you. Provided your letter makes the Line. The motto that just wrecked our life was:
"God Help the Rich; the Poor Can Beg."

We trusted in that motto. We took it to mean that it were preferable to be poor than rich; that if we were poor and humble everybody would help us. It's all wrong, Mabel, it's all wrong. But we found out too late.

WE TRIED THIS ON OUR HISSEER AND IT BROKE IT ALL TO PIECES.
[From the Saturday Evening Post.]
"Where've you put it?" hissed Dirk, edging closer.

Is it absolutely essential that a man must be able to chin himself ten times to be an orator? How many times could Demosthenes chin himself? Daniel Webster was so eloquent that he must not only have been able to chin himself ten times but skin the cat and do the double back somersault over eight cacti. Still, it isn't such a bad idea if they would only make the orators do their athletic exercises before they allowed them to orate. We would much rather see Senator Borah chin himself ten times than listen to him make a speech, and as for Senator Tom Watson of Georgia, what a joy it would be to have him chin himself fifty times, swing by one foot from the flying trapeze, and walk on his hands than to listen to him talk.

THE VAGARIES OF VANGIE.

(By Vangie, Herself.)

I have been asked to say a few words to the Readers and Contributors regarding the nonappearance of the Line o' Type yesterday morning. Well, I just felt that I simply had to have a day off. These quatrains and lettuce-spinach wheezes are simply killing my stomach. But, after all, I didn't go out Sunday as I had planned. My dear, I dropped into the Columbus Sunday morning and there I found bushels of poems, wheezes, and what not that R. H. L. had marked "Vangie, MUST." So I took off all my fine things except my galoshes and went to work. I just couldn't bear to take my galoshes off—and went to work. Do you know, girls, I feel just like little Alice did when the Red Queen grabbed her hand and told her to run. "Faster! faster!" said the Queen, and they went so fast that Alice could hardly keep up. But all the time the Red Queen kept saying, "Faster! faster!" and Alice couldn't say no, because she had no breath left to say so. The Red Queen twisted in Alice's ears and was almost blowing the hair off her head, but "faster, faster," cried the Queen. Finally they stopped and Alice found herself sitting on the ground and feeling giddy. "Why?" gasped Alice, "we're just where we started!" "Yes," said the Queen, "it takes all the running you can do here to keep in the same place!"

If you are a Cologum you have to run mighty fast to stay where you started.

To R. H. L. And now I'm in bad! When I sent in that stuff about George Norton not being at the deppo in Nappanee you got it all balled up and I got bawled out. Look! did you see the Line Thursday morning? George is a gunning for me. Just see what you did by tampering with the U. S. mails.

And that reminds me that a man by the name of Week runs a tea company down here in Kankakee. Two weeks ago he got another, and I told him I was going now—here comes George—dear me! quick! Will you?

AND, BUDDIE, HOW EAGERLY WE DID PERUSE 'EM IN THE ARGONNE.
R. H. L.: Add impression of Randolph street! Late members of the A. E. F. crowded about the window of Kampeier's bird store watching the monkeys "read their shirts."

TO EOLUS.
"Where are the poets of yesterday?"
A rather embarrassing question, my dear.
Some are still delving—in water-main trenches,
Some are at ease—on iron park benches,
Some are composing—astute bills of lading,
Some are parading—adorned with two boards,
Some are in banks—eying, wistful, the boards,
Some, swinging high, airy windows are cleaning,
Some, in the depths, dusky diamonds are screening,
Some are at banks—pulling rope on the guests,
And some are still at it—ye D.D.'s callous pests.
But for yesterday's poets I don't care a darn.
It's for this year's and next year's I feel a concern.

BALLYHOODING FOR BRAN.

YOU have probably seen an article by a scientific cook and dietitian in which she gives authority for her belief that bran is a dangerous article to eat."

G. L. L. writes: "There are two doctors of the regular school in our city who agree with her and say there is danger of bran causing pack in the bowels, which is a very serious matter."

"Three years ago, after reading your advice to people afflicted with constipation to use bran, I began using it. It seemed to produce excellent results. I haven't needed to use any since. I am feeling well and have gained twelve pounds the last year."

"I have induced a large number of my friends to use bran and all have obtained excellent results. 'I wish you would let me and my friends know if it is possible that serious results will eventually come from the continued use of bran.' Will be governed by what you say."

REPLY.
Your letter is a sample of a large number received by me, stimulated as was yours.

Of course, the lady is entitled to her opinion, and every one disposed to accept her as an authority on questions of physiology is privileged to do so.

Here are the facts and the physiological considerations, so far as I know them:

Bran contains some starch protein and fat and most of the cellulose, vitamins, and minerals of the wheat berry.

Its use is recommended because it is rich in vitamins and minerals, but especially because of the cellulose. Cellulose is a form of starch converted into a form not easily broken down, digested, or assimilated. When it is eaten it passes through the intestines without being changed chemically, or much physiologically, for that matter.

In a certain sense it irritates the delicate cells and nerves of the lining of the intestines. It furnishes bulk to the contents of the intestines. It holds on to moisture fairly well, and, therefore, prevents too great drying out of the intestinal contents.

Now, let us see what are the objections to its use, and how valid they are: It acts as an irritant. Sure it does! There would be no digestion of food, so pouring out of digestive juice, no averted hydrocolic and varicose at the same time be perfectly normal afterwards! The above conditions are supposed to have resulted from an injury in boyhood.

Forrest, Ill., Jan. 14.—[Friend of the People.]—If a person who has been divorced neglects to state this fact in applying for a second marriage license does it affect the legality of the second marriage in any way?

South Dakota has provided a cash bonus of $15 per month for a full month and 50 cents for each additional day of service, with a maximum payment of $400. There is no bonus awarded for less than sixty days of service.

If you think you are entitled to the bonus write again to the state bonus board at Pierre, S. D.

WISHES TO BREAK LEASE.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Under a form No. 5 flat lease I rented an apartment twelve months ago for $50, with the lease expiring April 30, 1932. The lease was assigned to me by a friend who is now out of the city and did not sign the lease. I wish to leave town now. Can the landlord garnish my husband's wages for the balance of two months' rent?

Mrs. M. R. B.
Although the statute does not clearly state the point, we incline to the opinion that the unexpired rent can be collected from your husband as a family expense.

MEMORY TESTS

Can You Answer These?

Answers to these questions will be published tomorrow.

1. What species of mosquito breeds in gain or lose weight by being carried from Alaska to San Francisco? It apparently loses weight when weighed on a spring scale. Alaska is nearer the center of the earth than California, gravity is a little stronger there, and objects seem to weigh a little more. In shipping gold south in the days of the gold rushes each $275 worth seemed to lose about a dollar. This caused much puzzling till the cause was found.
2. By what nickname was George Dixon, the former featherweight boxing champion, known? Little Chocolate.
3. Where is the center of the world's largest manufacturing district for iron and steel? Pittsburgh, Pa., which is popularly called "The Steel City."
4. Was Theodore Roosevelt a Mason? Yes, and at the time of his death he was a member of Matinlock lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons.
5. Who wrote "The Lost Chord"? It was a poem by Adelaide Anne Procter which was set to music by Sir Arthur Sullivan.
6. Are there any private banks in Illinois not under state supervision? No. The state private banks law, which went into effect Jan. 1, 1921, put all banks under state supervision.
7. Where is Lake Winnipeg? North central part of Manitoba, Canada.
8. Who wrote "The Lost Chord"? It was a poem by Adelaide Anne Procter which was set to music by Sir Arthur Sullivan.

"AMUSING!"

Chicago, Jan. 14.—There can be no doubt that many of your readers have been pained and disappointed upon reading your editorial in your this morning's issue under the caption "The New Fight for Liberty." It was hoped that a paper of the influence of THE TRIBUNE would line up with those standing for law and order. You say the American people "make more laws and pay less attention to them than any other people in the world," and at the same instant you were in the act of writing a three-quarter column editorial encouraging your readers to break the law, or, if not actually break it, to belittle and ignore the law. It is unfortunate that the writer of the editorial referred to cannot see the light. The matter is incomprehensible, except on the presumption that he is addicted to the use of alcoholic stimulants to a greater or lesser degree. That same statement will apply also to all of those who are organizing to fight for wine and beer.

It is exceedingly amusing to read your arguments for liberty and freedom. Do you not know that every law is a prohibition and infringes upon the liberty and freedom of some individual or group of individuals? You favor wine and beer. I suppose the wine should have about 15 per cent alcoholic content and the beer about 8 per cent. Should you succeed in your scheme, how would you enforce the law requiring a certain alcoholic content? You would still have to employ the 30,000 federal inspectors to whom you refer to prevent your manufacturers from making both wine and beer with a 50 per cent alcoholic content or more.

T. C. HOLLENBERGER.

SERIOUS.

Chicago, Jan. 14.—Too much cannot be said in praise of your editorial in this morning's paper entitled "The New Fight for Liberty." It is most fortunate that we have newspapers of the courage, good sense, and vision of THE TRIBUNE. Whether the country is wet or dry is a matter of secondary importance. The big thing is whether the basic principles upon which this government was founded shall endure.

D. A. ALLEN.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CITIZEN'S COMMITTEE.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—For years the building industries of Chicago have proved an increasingly fertile ground for graft, and this graft has carried with it a destruction of the morale in the building trades and has proved a tax assessed against every rent payer. Judge Landis, in his award, did not confine himself to a revision of wages, but having in mind the interest of the public, he dealt a heavy blow to the opportunities for graft and the equally pernicious restrictions in output imposed by the rules of some unions.

His award stands for fair wages to the men in the industry and a square deal for the public.

The citizens' committee proposes to liberate the building trades from organized graft. The committee is dedicated to right and justice in the highest sense. It aims to secure a harmonious and peaceful relationship between the builders and the union.

FOR A STAGE CENSORSHIP.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—As I gazed at the picture in the Rotogravure Section on the front page of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE of Jan. 8 and read the caption "Is a Stage Censor Needed?" I'll say yes, and I'll say no. I'll say yes, because a director who puts stuff like that on the simple minded to witness should not be left in loose, and neither should the females who play the parts. That kind of stuff is not art and is one way of making morons. THEODORE HOMAN.

Mexico City, Jan. 16.—Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, minister of the interior, is an out and out prohibitionist. He was scarcely back in office after his long illness when he began a campaign to make Mexico dry. He has been up against state rights, on which the Mexicans feel strongly, in trying to impose prohibition on Mexico; but he has not given up the battle. He is making the attack in a different way from a different quarter.

GEN. P. E. CALLES

The health department is under the direct control of the president of the republic, and it is through this that Calles has decided to work for prohibition. The task before him now is to convince the health department and the president of the necessity of making Mexico dry.

Although it is more than four months until election day on June 1, the members of the federal legislature are already busy electioneering.

The feeling of the country is so strong against the inefficiency of the present congress that it is estimated that probably not 20 per cent of the present members will be re-elected.

WETS SEEK OHIO VOTE TO DECIDE ON BEER, WINE

So Drys Gird Loins for a Finish Fight.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 16.—A nation wide fight to decide the wet and dry question, with Cleveland the central battleground, was inaugurated here today. The National Association Against the Prohibition Amendment began a campaign to force repeal of the Volstead act at one meeting and the Constitutional Loyalty convention to force obedience to the Volstead act held another meeting.

The fight to repeal the Volstead act and permit the sale of 2.75 per cent beer and light wines will be submitted to Ohio voters this fall under the referendum law, Capt. William H. Stayton of Baltimore, managing vice president of the National Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, announced.

He said the wets would begin immediately the circulation of petitions throughout Ohio and the nation to call the repeal referendum to the eighteenth amendment.

"We feel that public opinion has undergone a change," Capt. Stayton said. "Our campaign will be in the hands of business and professional men, who have seen the error of the Volstead act."

The Constitutional Loyalty convention, held under the auspices of the Citizens' alliance, Dry Maintenance league, Anti-Saloon league, and the County and Non-Partisan W. C. T. U., announced its members would begin the immediate organization of Ohio by wards and precincts, through a series of fifty meetings, to give the wets a fight in every precinct in Ohio.

OPEN DRIVE ON NUDISH WOMEN—(ON SIGNBOARD)

Those who ride may not read the questionable charms of lady corset advertising models next touring season. Stockings, underwear, and semi-nude figures are all right in their place, but their place does not include the roadside where the Sunday school picnic takes its innocent way.

So say members of the American Road Builders' association, who met in Chicago yesterday and launched a new campaign against highway signboards displaying advertising pictures of women in various states of undress and other matter deemed objectionable by the highway leaders.

"Two drawbacks of the open road are going to be eliminated immediately, if we can manage it," declared Col. H. L. Bowlby, president of the association, last night. "One is the grade crossing, which takes three-fifths of all the lives lost on the highways. The other is the obnoxious signboard."

"Some states have already passed laws removing all signboards other than road markings from the rights of way. I for one am tired of having lady's corset obstruct the view of a rich, green meadow or a sweet spring landscape. "The time is near," he added, "when all main roads will be paved and lined with trees and shrubbery. This beautification movement is well along already, thanks to the splendid memorial tree campaign which will plant a tree for every American soldier who served in the world war. We're now in the era of road building, and we soon will lead the world in permanent, connected highways."

More than 10,000 delegates, representing every state in the union, Canadian provinces and island possessions were on hand last night to attend the opening of the thirteenth good roads show and congress in the Coliseum.

The congress will open its official sessions this morning.

SIMPSON SCORES SMOOT'S TARIFF VALUATION PLAN

Holds It Will Impede Trade and Raise Prices.

In a telegram sent last night to the senate finance committee, James Simpson of Marshall Field & Co., vigorously protested against the incorporation of the Smoot substitute for the American valuation plan into the Fordney tariff bill. The telegram, signed "Marshall Field & Co.," reads:

"Senator Smoot's substitute of wholesale selling price in America of foreign or similar imported articles for Fordney's American valuation plan, as reported in the Chicago newspapers, would seem to make impossible a combination of American manufacturers to exclude foreign products by increasing duties thereon; but, so far as we can judge from newspaper reports, substantially all other arguments against the American valuation plan in the Fordney bill are also applicable to the substitute plan.

Difficult to Fix Prices.

"Wholesale selling prices in America for imported merchandise vary largely as between different cities. Also, it would be a difficult task, indeed, for any one to determine accurately wholesale selling prices of many imported commodities in the same cities, as prices often vary largely as between competitors in same market.

"The determination of wholesale selling price would necessarily rest largely with employees of the treasury department, which, we submit, gives government employees entirely too much power for the exercise of individual judgment.

"The proposed amendment will enable congress to apparently level a small percentage of customs duties, while as a matter of actual fact the protection afforded American manufacturers would be much greater than the figures in the bill would indicate.

Predicts Price Increase.

"We cannot but feel that an item which costs $1 per gross on which $1 must be paid is protected 100 per cent. We believe the people are entitled to know the protection is 100 per cent and not to have their minds confused by calling it some other figure.

"We are not arguing whether duties should be 1 or 1,000 per cent, but we insist that proposed departure from present basis of assessing duties on foreign costs or value is fundamentally wrong and will deceive the public as to the amount of protection accorded.

"By assessing duty on foreign cost or value the importer can figure with some degree of certainty upon his landed costs and not be subjected to the whim or caprice or elasticity of opinion of some government employee to determine wholesale selling price in America. A change in basis will lead to endless confusion and delay and will generally obstruct the free movement of commerce."

Approve Modified Plan.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 16.—(Special.)—Tentative approval of the modified American valuation plan, which uses the American wholesale selling price of the imported article as the basis for the assessment of ad valorem duties, was announced by Senator McCumber (N. D.) tonight on behalf of the Republican members of the senate finance committee.

Mr. McCumber said the Republican committee members approved the general principle of the modified scheme, as advocated by Judge Marion Devine of the Customs Court of Appeals, and Thomas O. Marvin and William Burgess, members of the tariff commission.

THE CHILDREN AND GEORGE WASHINGTON

More Entries in the Race for $11,650 in The Tribune's Prizes for School Children and Teachers.

Here are more of the essays by boys and girls entered in the George Washington prize contest being conducted by The Tribune. The contest closes on Washington's birthday, Feb. 22.

Greatness of Humility.

One observes in world history that at definite periods people under stress have been lifted from obscurity to an exalted position on earth by some great leader.

Such a man was George Washington. His work of early life was an inspired training; a surveyor at 16; camping in the forests many months. In his letter to Robert Orme in 1775 he said: "I wish earnestly to obtain some knowledge of the military profession and go as a volunteer without the expectation of reward."

Thus in the French and Indian war and at Fort Duquesne, though two horses were shot under him and four bullets pierced his garments, he remained unwounded, destined by Providence to later bring forth a great nation.

Twenty years as a planter, gifted him with solid information and sound judgment. When called to be commander in chief of our first army, he expressed himself "as unequal to the command." This was humility itself, an act of greatness.

Unexampled prudence, firmness, courage, and perseverance were his, and never failed through discouraging events, terminating in the successful issue of the war of independence of the New England colonies—an inspiration that lives today.

A commanding personage—6 feet 2 inches tall; blue eyes that bespoke truth; brown hair that betokened a fair face and honest purpose. He lives with us today as of the highest type of man. His name is sacred in our history; held with a native pride that emboldens us.

Rescuer of Nation.

In reading the history of Washington it is wonderful to think of the things he accomplished without the submarines, ships, big guns, and airplanes that were used in the world war.

He was God fearing and trusted in prayer.

He should be especially loved by all American children, for he was the rescuer of this beautiful America of theirs.

He was God fearing and trusted in prayer.

So should we follow his example.

How wonderful it would be if he was only living today and knew how the people of America honor him for his noble deeds and teachings.

But we should be grateful that he once lived and that today his teachings encourage us to be true Americans, and the name of Washington shall be remembered until this world shall be no more.

LA FOLLETTE IN NEW BATTLE TO "LIMIT" PACKERS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 16.—(Special.)—A resolution declaring it to be the sense of the senate that Attorney General Daugherty should not consent to any modification of the court decree affecting the "big five" packers without specific authorization of congress was introduced today by La Follette of Wisconsin.

The resolution also directs the senate committee on agriculture to investigate the matter and recommend what action it considers necessary.

Senator La Follette asserted that if the court decree is modified in such a way as to permit the packers to engage in unrelated lines of business they will be free to extend their control to the grocery field and thus "dictate prices on nearly every article of food consumed by the American people."

Levy Mayer of Chicago asked the Supreme court today to advance for early hearing the test case involving the constitutionality of a portion of the so-called packer law. Mayer represents live stock traders of the Chicago Union stockyards, who are contesting the validity of that portion of the act directly affecting their operations. The court took the motions under advisement.

America's Largest Furniture Makers SHOWERS

RIGHT in this country there are today millions of devastated homes—devastated just as surely as the most shell torn homes of northern France or Belgium. These homes are worth restoring, they've GOT to be restored. Influences, the existence of which we have scarcely dared to recognize, have been insidiously luring Americans away from their homes, breaking up home ties, weaning our people away from the old family circle.

We know that the first thing to do for the American home is to improve its environment—to make it a better place in which to live. "Home environment" is only another name for "Good Furniture." No small part of the job of rebuilding the American home is going to be up to America's ten thousand FURNITURE DEALERS.

If you want to rebuild the morale of your home, take a good, honest furniture dealer into your confidence—the country is full of them.

MAY ABOLISH TAX FREE BONDS BY CONSTITUTION

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
Washington, D. C., Jan. 16.—(Spre-)

A constitutional amendment prohibiting the further issuance of tax-exempt securities by states and municipalities was urged before the house committee on ways and means today both by government officials and by representatives of public utility and industrial corporations. The witnesses included Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Under-Secretary of the Treasury Gilbert, Representative McFadden of Pennsylvania, who introduced the resolution supported by the American Gas association, the National Electric association, and the American Railway association; and D. S. Kline, a director of the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce, composed of 40,000 Pennsylvania industrial and business concerns.

Mellon Favors Uniformity.

Secretary Mellon said the main consideration in favor of a constitutional amendment is the establishment of uniformity of taxation on different classes of securities, asserting that the favorable position of municipal securities has a tendency to encourage extravagance by municipalities.

McFadden said that the members of the American Gas association, the National Electric association, and the American Railway association require many hundreds of millions annually for extensions and improvements; that when the war public utilities were able to borrow money on bond issues at a rate of interest 1 1/2 per cent more than the average of municipal securities, but that now large investors will buy tax-exempt issues paying 5 per cent interest in preference to securities of public utilities paying 6 per cent.

To get this money we are compelled to compete in financial centers with state and municipal tax-exempting.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 16.—Detailed figures as to income and expenditures of the Christian Science Publishing society were given to the Supreme court today by John R. Watts, business manager of the society.

Mr. Watts testified that for the year ending April 1, 1921, the society's net profits were $418,089. For the year ending April 1, 1922, they were $1,497,245. For the period from April 1, 1919, to Dec. 31, 1920, he said, the net profits were $1,304,655, of which $439,064 was paid to the officers and the balance retained for the society, in accordance with the terms prescribed in the will of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy.

Under cross-examination by W. A. Dana of counsel for the directors, Mr. Watts explained a payment of $2,000 by the trustees to Mrs. Clementine Dixon, wife of Frederick S. Dixon, editor of the Christian Science periodicals. He said Mrs. Dixon had worked at the publishing house and had refused compensation to which the trustees believed she was entitled. When they learned she was obliged to meet an "abnormal" rent increase and had incurred other expenses, Mr. Watts said, they sent her a check.

The witness testified that he could not say whether Mr. Dixon's salary had been fixed at $12,000 a year with the understanding that Mrs. Dixon was to receive $3,000. He said that Paul Harvey had been paid $900 a month for his duties as trustee and also had received $130 a month as head of the New York advertising office of the society.

Mrs. Zalewska, who has lived here with her husband for eleven years, went to visit her native home in Poland last August.

REFUNDING BILL IS REPORTED AS MELLON ASKED

Washington, D. C., Jan. 16.—After eliminating the restrictions objected to by Secretary of Treasury Mellon, the senate finance committee today reported the foreign loan refunding bill to the senate.

The two restrictions were those requiring semi-annual payment of interest on foreign loans and fixing the minimum rate of interest at 5 per cent. The committee provided limiting maturities of the bond to twenty-five years was retained.

The committee also amended the house bill by requiring that appointments by the President of members of the world war foreign debt commission shall require senate confirmation.

The bill contains a provision that the act shall not be construed to authorize the exchange of bonds of any foreign government for those of any other foreign government, or the cancellation of any part of the indebtedness except through payment thereof.

Formulation of definite plans for funding the debts will await enactment of the bill, it was said tonight at the treasury.

When congressional authorization is received, it was said, negotiations probably would be begun with Great Britain, the largest individual creditor, and then the debts of the other nations would be considered.

Why It's Cheaper To Do It With GAS

THE use of GAS is economical because the consumer buys 100 per cent fuel direct from the manufacturer with the usual middle-man profit eliminated.

GAS being 100 per cent fuel, purchased direct and the volume used subject to instant regulation by the consumer, there is no waste—no useless burning—no heat to pay for which you do not want.

Gas—Where and When You Need It

In the home GAS meets the requirements of the housewife efficiently and economically, for cooking, baking, ironing, washing, and heating. The thrifty housewife knows the economy of using GAS; she knows that she pays only for what she burns, after she burns it. The greater use of GAS is in tune with the eagerness of the housewife to hold down her household costs.

Effective as to all meter readings on and after February 1, 1922, Chicago is to have new and lower rates for gas. To offset in part, if possible, the loss in revenue due to these lower rates, it will be necessary for the Gas Company to inaugurate every possible operating economy consistent with full and unselfish Service to our 700,000 customers.

Service First—is a maxim of the Gas Company, to the fulfillment of which every working activity of our thousands of employees is daily re-dedicated.

GAS for heating solves the problem of building owners and tenants. No soot—no smoke—no odor—no waste. To the manufacturer GAS Service offers reliable, even heat, eliminates the costs of hauling raw fuel, disposal of ashes and labor incident thereto.

In Chicago alone 23,422 industries are using GAS Service. The proof of GAS Service efficiency is improved production. The responsibility for delivering your fuel supply uninterruptedly and with desired volume is assumed by a properly equipped organization of accepted reliability.

GAS for industrial use always meets your requirements—in any volume—at any time—in any place. GAS Service fits perfectly whether your production program is increased or cut down.

GAS offers immediate saving. It's a flexible fuel. It's efficient.

Ward's Bread Reduced In Price

To the Grocers and Consumers of Chicago and Vicinity:

We wish to announce that because of lower cost of labor, flour and other bread-making materials, we find it possible to make a substantial reduction in the price of the different sizes and varieties of WARD'S BREAD.

EFFECTIVE ON and After Wednesday, Jan. 18

The wholesale price on all varieties of small bread will be reduced one cent per loaf and all varieties of large bread one and one-half cents per loaf.

You will agree with us, we are sure, that the public at this time, hearing of wage reductions and noting the trend of lower prices on all bread-making materials, is naturally looking for lower bread prices, and is justified in expecting them; although not expecting, we hope, to have us sell our product at a loss, as some concerns are at the present time doing—making up the loss on bread by the sales on other articles, and using bread as a bait for trade. This practice we cannot follow for obvious reasons.

Our policy is, and always has been, to keep faith with the public in giving as large a measure of our product in return for the money as the cost of the product allows, plus a living profit for ourselves. And a like policy in selling goods is, of course, the policy of every upright and successful dealer. We are glad, then, at this time to be able to pass to the public through the grocer a fair reduction in the price of WARD'S BREAD. We believe, at the lower price, consumers of WARD'S BREAD will be eating more of it, and that our sales will greatly increase.

As a grocer, you do not have to be told that your biggest sales are always on staples which give the most food value for the money, and you well know there isn't an item that you sell that gives you a greater daily turnover, or in other words, as many opportunities for profit, though it be a small profit, or that gives the buyer more real food value for the money than WARD'S BREAD.

As a consumer you know that bread is food absolutely without waste. Every crumb of it is nutritious and it is ready for the table without further preparation or expense of time or fuel for cooking. You do not have to be reminded, we are sure, of the high quality of all varieties of WARD'S BREAD, of its freshness or uniformity, nor of the enviable reputation it has built up. Neither do you have to be reminded of the cleanliness which prevails in all our bakeries, nor of the wonderful control laboratories operated, where all flour and other materials are analyzed and tested for purity and quality before they are admitted for use. The quality, purity and cleanliness of WARD'S BREAD are permanent traits. We safeguard them most carefully, and at whatever price the bread is sold there is no skimping on that quality or lowering of the standard of purity and cleanliness.

It is our policy, and always has been, to keep faith with the public on these points, just as it has been our policy to sell at fair prices to the grocer, that he may sell at fair prices to the public, and through oft-repeated sales make a fair profit for himself. What is to the public interest is to the mutual interest of every grocer and ourselves.

Therefore, further reductions will be made as soon as new conditions justify such action.

Learn the Truth

Kinzie Street Station was removed because its location between the curve and the entrance to the North Water Street Terminal made an impracticable and unsafe operating condition.

The comparatively small number of people accommodated at Kinzie Street did not justify this detrimental effect upon the entire service through causing congestion and delaying trains between Chicago Avenue and the Loop.

The new station at Grand Avenue is only a short distance from the old one. It was erected at a cost of $100,000 to better serve the people of that section and improve conditions for all Northwestern Elevated passengers.

The North Central Business Men's Association presented a petition signed by 3,900 persons to the Illinois Commerce Commission, urging the construction of the new station at Grand Avenue and the abandonment of the old station. The Commission held a public hearing on the subject, at which all interested parties were represented, and after full consideration of the facts, authorized the removal of the Kinzie Street Station.

COAST LEAGUE GOES ON RECORD AGAINST DRAFT

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

There'll be no drafting of Pacific Coast league players next fall, nor in the future, according to the league. The league went into session at San Francisco yesterday for the purpose of bringing the draft question to a showdown, and when the meeting broke up an announcement was made that the league had no desire to submit to the annual selection of athletes by the major clubs.

The league bosses had previously gone on record as unalterably opposed to the draft, but the problem was reopened as the result of the majors offering to raise the price per player in class AA from $5,000 to $7,500. The price inducement didn't even enter into the discussion. Seven of the eight owners admitted they opposed it as a matter of principle.

Graham Motion Passed.
Charles F. Graham, president of the Frisco club, introduced and passed the motion that the league should not be asked to bring all the minor leagues back into the fold. The lone dissenting vote was cast by Cal Ewing of the Oakland club.

The action of the coast circuit means that Commissioner Landis has failed to accomplish what he regards as the biggest task confronting him. He is a firm advocate of the draft, and has fought for it almost from the day he stepped into office.

The American association and International league, the other two class AA leagues, are believed in line to accept the $7,500 proposition.

The Western, in class A, and the Three Rivers, in class B, are the only others which do not subscribe to the draft.

Jake Ruppert in Town.
Col. Jake Ruppert, president of the New York Yankees, was in Chicago yesterday, but claimed he had no connection with his visit. It was figured the Gotham magnate might have come on here for the purpose of seeing Judge Landis about the Babe Ruth suspension, but he had no information to offer as regards the slugger's case.

Before starting back to New York to talk with Ban Johnson, president of the American league, and with Ruth, who is playing a vaudeville engagement here.

More business has piled up for Commissioner Landis. It was learned yesterday that the attention of the O. B. director had been called to the fact that Johnny Hawlings and "Irish" Meusel, both of the Giants, have been playing week-end ball in California.

This constitutes a violation of the same rule that led to Mr. Ruth's five weeks' suspension and fine, so it may be necessary to plaster the two McGraw troopers.

SERVICES HELD FOR B. F. SHIBE
Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 16.—Simple funeral services for Benjamin F. Shibe, president of the American league baseball club, who died Saturday, were held tonight. Many men prominent in baseball, including Ban Johnson, president of the American league; Charles H. Ebbetts Jr., Connie Mack, and A. J. Reach, gathered at the home of Mrs. Shibe, where the body lay in state. Burial was made by relatives that burial would be held tomorrow and that the services would be private.

NOTES OF THE CUE ROOMS.
In the three cushion tournament at Ben-shure's Monroe room Henderson (48) defeated Forry (50), 48 to 47, and Brown (50) won from White (48), 50 to 32.

Duffy defeated Johnson (42), 48 to 40, in a city league three cushion game at Har's. Duffy had a high run of 9 and Johnson a knock-out (60) plays, Henry (42) at Let-Burgess's tonight.

Rourke defeated Young (22), 31 to 16, in the three cushion tournament at Foley's. Barnes (31) plays O'Brien (35) tonight.

IN the WAKE of the NEWS

BOY SCOUTING.
A TROOP of Boy Scouts visited the forest preserve camp Saturday and tramped over the surrounding territory. Ending their hike at the trolley terminal, two of the party found they had missed the last car to the city and must remain over night, for which they had made no preparation.

Returning to camp, they found a third scout and a scout master from another troop who were spending the week-end in taking photographs. The scout master undertook to teach them how to meet emergencies. Without blankets, the boys used their overcoats and a good supply of mattresses to the best advantage, along with a wood fire, the fuel for which they gathered. You remember Saturday was pretty cold night.

For breakfast Sunday some frozen beans and frozen macaroni were found in the camp, thawed out, and cooked, and they tasted "great."

A 13 year old neighbor, who was one of the two scouts, was telling The Wake his experiences Sunday. He had escaped without so much as a slight cold; was animated and enthusiastic. It had been to him a great lark and a great experience. Well, it was. That's another reason why we approve the Boy Scout movement with its urge toward outdoor life.

During the recital of this tale an 11 year old brother, named Vintner, as he ended, he said, "Gee! I'll be glad when I'm 12 years old, so's I can join."

Growth of Golf.
Sixty-three new clubs were admitted to membership in the United States Golf association during 1921. The highest number in any previous year had been seventeen. Just another example of the great growth of golf, one of the group of outdoor sports toward which the American people are flocking as participants.

Storm Warning.
O Uncle Sam, O Uncle Sam, I fear you're courting trouble. For marriage at your age too oft goes bloomy. Especially should you fight shy the dame you now consider; Let well enough alone, old top, and do not wed the widder.

The late lamented Zander may have been a perfect dream. But she will tout him as a saint and make you out a sinner; She'll sing this song and keep it up—of it you'll never rid her; You'll hear it morning, noon, and night, in case you wed the widder.

No matter what your qualities, you'll still be second fiddle; The Lads shall doubt be the first, except upon the griddle; Rush Mrs. Zander all you want, and jolly her and kid her; But stick to Andy's Min. and Chee, and do not wed the widder.

Cannon to Develop Speed.
Following a daily workout with Minkley, the titleholder will take on Cannon to work for speed. Tommy is a clever lightweight who knows all the fine points of the game. He has worked with Meyers for all his important contests, and with a week's hard training Johnny expects to be "in the pink."

Matchmaker John "Doc" Krone is planning to use Lou Talaber with Carl Furness in the semi-windup of six rounds of ten minutes each. Talaber's ability as a wrestler is well known, while Furness is considered a comer in the middleweight ranks.

U. of Illinois Athlete.
Furness is a graduate of the University of Illinois, and learned the mat game under tutelage of Paul Prehn. He now is studying medicine on the west side. A preliminary of three rounds will be arranged by Matchmaker Krone.

JOKE MAY BEING BOUT OF BURMAN-SCHAEFFER

Many a good boxing match has been made by taking a joke seriously. This is just what may happen early next month if Jim Mullen, manager of Frankie Schaeffer, south side featherweight, and Tommy Walsh, who looks after the interests of Joe Burman, west side bantamweight, go through with what started in the Arcade gymnasium yesterday.

It happened that Manager Mullen chided Burman about his fighting ability. Joe became angry and told Mullen he could whip any of his fighters, including Frankie Schaeffer. If the latter would make any kind of weight, Mullen, who generally is quick with retorts, said Bur

National Education Association Takes Issue with Bytler

Washington, D. C., Jan. 16.—The National Education association today took issue with the declaration of President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university that pending legislation to establish a federal bureau of education is a proposal to bureaucratize the educational system of the country.

Hugh S. Magill, field secretary of the association, issued this statement for the organization:

"President Nicholas Murray Butler's statement is an affront to the 500,000 organized teachers and to the friends of the public schools throughout the country. He assumes that the millions of educators and citizens who are supporting this measure are ignorant and insincere. As a matter of fact, the leading members of his own faculty are strongly supporting the bill. This attack on the friends of public education is not unlike Dr. Butler's false and undignified attack on Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, which he later abjectly retracted."

Newberry Library Passes 400,000 Mark, Annual Report Shows

The Newberry library recently passed the 400,000 mark of books and pamphlets on its shelves, for, according to the annual report of George B. Utley, the librarian, which was presented to the board of trustees this afternoon, the number in the possession of the library at the end of the year was 400,205. This includes about 40,000 in the Edward E. Ayer collection on the North American Indian, about 18,000 thousand in the Prince Bohn parts collection on linguistics, and about 20,000 volumes of Chinese, Japanese, Mongolian and Tibetan literature, history and philosophy, and over 4,000 volumes in the new John M. Wing foundation on printing; these works being either bequeathed by Mr. Wing or purchased with funds provided by him. A total of 6,978 books, pamphlets and manuscripts were added during the year 1931, 1,389 of which were gifts.

Among the rare and valuable books acquired during the year was a fine copy of the first printed edition of Plato's works, a Latin translation printed in Florence in 1483; and a copy of Richard Arnold's Chronicle, in English, but printed in Antwerp, about 1503. Another rarity of the year is a copy of the learned work on etymology written by Isidore of Seville, and printed in Strasbourg in 1472 by John Mentelin, the first printer of that city, which book contains a wood cut reputed to be the first map ever printed. It is rude in design, but one can make out the "Mare Magnum," or the Mediterranean sea.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY BALLY JOY BROWN.

Asks for Photograph Records.

"I'm wondering if there are some good folks who have some photograph records they are tired of and would be glad to give to one who would appreciate them."

"I am an invalid—having been in bed for about twenty-five years, and music is one of my few pleasures. I have a photograph, but few records for it, and none of them issued within the last few years."

"I do not specify the kind of music that should be sent me; but for any one who might care to know, I especially like band, banjo, accordion, violin, or any string music."

"LOVER OF MUSIC."

This plea makes its own appeal. Can you contribute a record or two?

For Growing Girls.

"I am a widow with three daughters whose ages are 15, 14 and 12. I am handy at making things over, so I thought perhaps some of your readers would have outgrown clothing that could be made over to fit my girls. I wear size 38, and am greatly in need of a warm coat. Will you try to help me?"

NEW YORK.—National Association of Credit Men launches campaign against "commercial bribery." Practice is more widespread than generally understood, it is declared. In many lines it causes higher prices.

NEW YORK.—Cotton blanket prices named Monday by a group of New England mills were accompanied by the statement: "These prices will be in keeping with the advance in the cost of production."

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—Large apparel jobbers and manufacturers here have formed the Philadelphia credit exchange. They have agreed to sell no customers, old or new, unless financial statement is rendered to the exchange's central office.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—Prices in the cotton yarn market on Monday were again unsettled. Certain quotations eased off. Both buying and inquiry had slumped. Belief is growing in oversupply.

NEW YORK.—Customs duty on women's hand bags composed of silk fabrics and galilith are lowered from 60 to 15 per cent ad valorem by a decision of the United States board of general appraisers following an appeal from the original assessment by the importers. Large sums must be returned to importers.

NEW YORK.—The slump in cotton dragged the gray goods market down with it. The 33½ inch, 64x60, 5.35 yards to the pound, slipped back ¼ to 85c, and the 39 inch, 68x72, 4.75 yard, slipped an equal amount to 90 cents. The 39 inch, 72x76, 4.25 yard, was down ¼ to 10½c.

NEW YORK.—Yokohama cables Monday reported raw silk prices down, following a rumor that American buyers have agreed to take no more raw silk at present prices. The open market was down 40 yen per bale for double extra cranks. The rumor could not be verified in New York, but reports of price cuts by big importers were heard.

NEW YORK.—Unfavorable sentiment towards adoption of uniform opening dates for hosiery lines developed at the meeting here Monday of the jobbers' association of knit goods buyers, which opened the convention of the National Wholesale Dry Goods association. Nevertheless, a resolution was adopted directing the formulation of a plan of uniform quarterly openings.

The New York Times.

New York, Jan. 16.—[Special.]—Wall Street was probably more interested today in the rise in rate for demand loans on the stock exchange than in other occurrences in the market. The 6 per cent rate which was touched in the afternoon was the highest since the last day of December and attracted notice for its contrast with the 3 per cent of a week ago.

It had no further meaning, however, than withdrawal by some out of town banks of balances which they had found it difficult to lend last week, even at the lower rate. No inferences regarding the money situation could be drawn from the incident, as the market time loans, acceptances, and merchants' paper remained where it was last week, with the note of indication of supply in excess of actual demand.

Stocks Less Ground.
The stock market, which had been rising until the advance of money rates, halted and lost ground before the closing. In the early hours there had been numerous gains of a point or more, both in the industrial and railway shares. The market increase of activity in the last named group could hardly have had any other immediate motive than a speculative maneuver directed against a possibly overdone speculation for the decline.

At the moment the actual traffic situation of the roads is probably at or near its worst, which means that there is prospect, after a while, of larger "car loading" statements and better gross earnings. The main consideration in speculative Wall Street's mind may have been the moral influence of forthcoming dividend announcements by strong railways which have been earning respectable profits even in hard times.

Numerous Bonds Advance.
Advances occurred again in numerous bonds, but, except for a few foreign gov-

NEW YORK STOCK TRANSACTIONS

BY O. A. MATHER.

Foreign governments that plan to borrow money by selling their bonds to American investors must put their own finances in order. American investors are entitled to protection and henceforth the United States government will sanction large foreign loans in this country only as the borrowing countries offer assurance that their governments are being conducted on sound financial principles.

This is the broad hint given by the state department yesterday in sanctioning a loan of $50,000,000 to the Cuban government, which had made negotiations for a loan of $50,000,000. The Cuban government was informed that approval for an additional loan will be contingent on the island republic demonstrating its ability to balance its budget to a point where taxes will meet the additional burden of the loan.

Crowder Favors Loan.

The decision to permit a loan of $50,000,000 was based on a report by Maj. Gen. Crowder, who has been supervising work on the Cuban budget. He reported to the American government that the Cuban government had promised to keep its expenses within its income. Public offering of the new Cuban bonds probably will be announced today by a banking syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co.

The new $50,000,000 bond issue of the Southern Railway company was offered yesterday by a banking syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. The issue consists of development and general mortgage 6 1/2 per cent bonds maturing April 1, 1936, and the offering price was $95 yielding 6 1/2 per cent. The proceeds will be used chiefly to refund a matured note issue of $25,000,000. The Chicago Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad was granted an extension for five years of a government loan of $25,000,000 maturing March 1. This is the only obligation maturing this year.

Plan International Commission.

Business organizations in more than twenty countries are being asked to express their opinion on a proposal to organize an international commission of bankers and business men through which governments and private traders of impoverished nations may finance essential imports. The referendum is being conducted by the International chamber of commerce, which was organized in Paris two years ago. Copies of the ballot have been received by the chamber of commerce of the United States and other allied organizations.

The proposal is known as the "Ter Meulen" plan for international credit. It having been suggested by an Amsterdam banker of that name at the international financial conference at Brussels in September, 1920. The plan has been approved by the American Bankers' association, the British government and English bankers, and several international organizations.
